TENTH YEAR—NO. 3017. WISCONSIN RAPIDS, WIS., FRIDAY MAY 18, 1923. PRICE THREE CENTS

SEVENTY-ONE DIE IN SCHOOL HOUSE FIRE

COUNTY IS SCENE OF CHILD HEALTH DEMONSTRATION

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF EVERY CHILD THAT WILL ENTER SCHOOL NEXT FALL IS FIRST STEP

Every Wood county child that will ente r school for the first time next fall will be weighed and measured and given a thorough physical examination between now and the opening of school as the first step in the carrying out of a plan devised by the bureau of child welfare to demonstrate the value of the child health work being carried on in the county. Five years later, according to the plan, another examination of all children of the same age will be made and a comparison of the results of the two examinations will indicate the value of the health work carried on in the intervening period.

Choose Wood County

Demonstrations of the sort planned for Wood county are to be held under the supervision of the federal government in one county in each state of the union where child health work has been undertaken on any considerable scale. Wood county was selected for the Wisconsin demonstration because of the county's past record of activity in welfare work, according to officers of the county conference of social work, who are taking an active part in carrying through the program.

The work of enrolling the children and planning the examinations is being done by the county conference, of which Mrs. Wm. Kelolgg of this city is chairman, and with the cooperation of local agencies for social work in various communities throughout the county.

Special to Visit County

Practically all of the children of the county with the exception of those of the cities of Wisconsin Rapids and Marshfield will be examined on the Child Welfare Special, the bureau's specially equipped automobile, which with doctors and nurses will visit thirteen points throughout the county between May 28 and June 22. Children in the few communities not on the schedule of the Special will be visited by special examiners next fall, while the children of Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids will probably be examined by local physicians at the time of the opening of school next fall.

Following is the schedule which will be followed by the Child Welfare Special:

May 28-29 Blenker; May 30-31, Auburndale; June 1, Hewitt; June 4-5, Lincoln town hall; June 6, Golden Glow school, town of Rock; June 7-8, Arpin; June 11-12, Vesper; June 13-14, Pittsville; June 15, Babcock; June 18, Nekoosa; June 19, Port Edwards; June 20, Biron; June 21-22, Rudolph.

Pays Fine and Costs on Assault, Battery Charge

Joe Lukasziski, this city, paid a fine and costs amounting to $25 in Judge Getts court upon charges of assault and battery upon the person of Edward Konkel, age 17, also of this city. The assault took place May 16, in the St. Lawrence Club hall, at the Polish Catholic church. During the assault it is claimed that Lukasziski bit Konkel's thumb and also pummeled him severely about the head and face.

Local Unit To Be Retained Says Captain

Madison, Wis., May 18—The meeting of the national guard officers here Saturday will determine the units to be mustered out of the service as a result of the reduced appropriation allowed by the legislature, it is said here.

The contemplated grant of funds, which is $345,000 smaller than granted two years ago, will necessitate the abandonement of nearly 25 units, according to reports. There are approximately 100 units now, the number of which is expected to be cut to 75 by the Saturday meeting.

Following the conference the report arrived at by the officers will be carried to Washington and arrangements for cutting the guard, will then be made, the officers say. All independent guard units are expected by them to be mustered out.

According to Captain Kraske of the local guard unit no officers from Battery E will be in attendance at the Madison meeting. When questioned as to the possibility of the local Battery being one of the units mustered out the Captain said, "No, I do not think so and in fact am reasonably sure of it. The late war proved that artillery units are one of the most effective weapons of war and the artillery units will be retained, especially units that have already proven themselves to be of high caliber.

"Cavalry units will be the first to go in my opinion and then new infantry companies that have found difficulty in recruiting a full quota will follow. Cavalry units were obsolete in the last war and only a few regiments of regular army cavalry will be retained for scouting purposes.

Senate Advances Bill To Abolish Compulsory Drill

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis., May 16—Compulsory military training at the University of Wisconsin came a step nearer abolition last night when the Senate voted 18 to 7 to advance the Sachtjen bill making membership in the University cadet corps optional.

This measure which has passed the assembly, has the endorsement of Governor Blaine who is expected to sign it.

The present system of military training which requires all freshmen and sophomore students to take drill three times a week under requirements of the Merrill land grant act of 1862, was defended by President E. A. Birge.

He pointed out the obligation the state assumed when it agreed with the federal government to offer military instruction in return for public lands and public funds.

Oil Is Being Applied to Wisconsin Rapids Streets

Seven Wisconsin Rapids streets are to be included in the oiling operations started yesterday by the city, it was announced by City Engineer E. H. Aldrich. Work was started yesterday on Birch street and it is expected that by Saturday evening oil will also have been applied to Washington avenue, Fourth street, Eighth street, Third avenue, Drake street and High street.

No other streets will be oiled this year unless petitions are received from property owners, according to Mr. Aldrich.

The oil being used this year is of a lighter grade than that applied to the streets heretofore, and it is expected that it will give more satisfactory results.

Drys Favorable To Referendum On Prohibition

Madison, Wis., May 18—Advocates of prohibition are heartily in favor of a referendum vote on the question of repealing the Eighteenth amendment, B. N. Hicks, legislative counsel of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, declared in testifying before the assembly state affairs committee on the committee bill providing for submission of the question to the voters at the November election in 1924.

"We are perfectly willing that the people should have the opportunity of recording directly their opinion on this question, and we will gladly abide by the result," Mr. Hicks said. "It has been charged that the Anti-Saloon league is oposed to such a referendum. In answer, I will put the league on record as unqualifidly in favor of this bill.

"The Anti-Saloon league is opposed to any referendum on whether the Eighteenth amendment shall be respected and enforced. To submit to the people a referendum of this nature, would be an affront to their intelligence and citizenship. The 18th amendment is a part of the Constitution, and as such must and shall be enforced."

Mr. Hicks was the only witness to appear before the committee on the bill.

TO KILL CAPTIVES UNLESS TROOPS ARE WITHDRAWN

BRITISH AND AMERICAN PRISONERS WILL BE KILLED IF TROOPS ARE NOT RECALLED BY TUESDAY.

(By Associated Press)

Shanghai, May 18—American and British captives of the Shantung bandits will be shot next Tuesday if the Chinese troops are not withdrawn, according to the "final ultimatum" of the bandits, brought from their mountain stronghold today by Marcel Berube, a Frenchman, one of the prisoners who was released for the purpose.

Predicts Release

Lloyd Lehrbas, the American newspaper man who was on the Shantung-Peking express train wrecked by the bandits near Suchow twelve days ago, but escaped before the foreign captives were taken into the Shantung hills, has arrived in Shantung from Tsao Chwang with the prediction that unless there are unforseen developments, the prisoners will be released in ten days or two weeks.

He quoted Barube, the French captive, as saying, "I am satisfied that on the slightest suspicious move on our part, or by the Chinese troops, the bandits will kill one or two of us and send out the bodies."

Lehrbas intends to return to Tsao Chwang shortly. Regarding the censorship of messages, he explained that delays in transmission of telegrams from Tsao Chwang was due chiefly to the single wire, manned by a lone operator, 65 years old, who had to handle floods of official messages, principally to and from Pekin.

Priest Interviews Chief

Shanghai, Bulletin, May 18—Another letter from Rev. Wm. Lenfers, the aged German priest of Lincheng, was delivered to the Associated Press here today, in which he described his second trip into the stronghold of the Shantung bandits.

For a second time within a few days, he interviewed the bandit chieftain, but did not succeed in obtaining the liberation of the foreign captives.

Dummy is Killed! Police Receive Hurry Up Call

"For God's sake hurry! A man has been run over and killed near the cemetery! I saw the accident.

That was the substance of a call received Thursday night about nine o'clock by Chief Payne. Jumping into his car the chief hurried to the scene of the alleged killing and found the corpse of a scare crow lying in the middle of the road where it had in all probability been placed by some of the neighborhood kids as a joke on passing motorists.

Other officers on duty at the time were called by witnesses of the accident(?).

The dummy itself is a fair imitation and during the night might easily be mistaken for a man. Dressed in tattered overalls and jacket, straw hat, and stuffed with hay the dummy caused more than its share of excitement.

At the meeting to be held here in July it is expected that a program similar to the one carried out at the meeting yesterday will be given.

Local Showers Predicted By George T. Nixon

Wisconsin Rapids escaped the local showers that were forecasted yesterday by George T. Nixon, but weather indications for tomorrow point to cloudy and unsettled weather with local showers, and a drop in temperature. Local showers were spread over wide areas today. Vast portions of the territory west and northwest of us were visited by the local showers which were caused by disturbances in the west.

A high wind velocity was experienced over wide areas with Buffalo, N. Y., reporting a wind velocity of 68 miles per hour. Light frosts were reported over northern communities.

The warmest recorded here yesterday was 65 and the coldest 40, while a year ago the extremes were 71 and 56. The same date in 1915 a 32 mark was reached while in 1917, 84 was the highest reading on the thermometer. The sun rose this morning at 4:55 and will set this evening at 6:53.

Department of Agriculture Not Liable for Poisonings

Madison, Wis.—Representatives of the state department of agriculture who distribute poison to farmers, to kill insects that infest crops are not liable for accidental poisonings if they do not violate the law.

In his opinion Mr. Reis said that it was necessary for representatives to use due care in the distribution of poisons.

Sixty years ago today began the famous siege of Vicksburg.

STAIRWAY FALLS AS CROWD FLEES BLAZING BUILDING

WHOLE FAMILIES WIPED OUT BY FLAMES WHICH INTERRUPTED CAROLINA GRADUATION EXERCISES.

(By Associated Press)

Camden, S. C., May 18—Seventy-one known dead and two unaccounted for was the toll of the Cleveland, S. C. school house fire last night, determined at 7:00 a. m. today.

The fire was caused by the overturning of an oil lamp on the stage during the class exercises which were being witnessed by a crowd that jammed the room. A panic followed.

Stairway Falls

The collapse of a narrow wooden stairway leading from the second floor where the entertainment, incident to the school closing, was in progress, caused many of the deaths, a number of persons being crushed in the debris. Others, cut off from escape in this way, were burned to death, while still others jumped from windows.

The school building, a two story frame building containing three school rooms, burned rapidly, and before outside aid could be summoned, nothing remained but to collect the dead and give medical care to the injured.

Whole Families Perished

All available doctors and nurses from Camden and other nearby towns were called. The death list reads like a roster of the families of the community. Family after family were virtually wiped out. In almost every instance where parents are listed as dead, from one to four children perished. Among the dead is Coroner G. L. Dixon and his young daughter.

City in Mourning

More than half of the business houses at Camden displayed crepe on their doors today, and houses all over the county were under mourning as indicating how the lives of entire families were snuffed out.

The death list showed ten of the name of Dixon, eight of McLeod, ten of Davis, five of Hendrix, and many other similar groupings.

Forty children, sixteen men and fifteen women, including a negro nurse, were burned to death, and two young men are missing.

Funeral services for the seventy odd victims who perished in the fire, will be held jointly at six o'clock this afternoon, near the ashes of the building where they met their deaths. The plan also is to bury all in the same grave.

Beer Plea Legislature's Only Wet Accomplishment

Madison, Wis.—A single resolution asking congress to amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the return of beer will be the sum total of wet legislation to be enacted by the Wisconsin legislature at this session. Both houses of the legislature have passed the Czerwinski resolution memorializing congress to amend the present laws so as to permit the sale of "good beer" for home consumption. The resolution will be enrolled and sent to members of Congress during the coming week.

Over a dozen bills on the liquor question were introduced at this session of the legislature and the dry forces were successful in burying all proposals with the exception of the Czerwinski beer memorial. Two bills were introduced at the beginning of the session for the complete repeal of the Severson dry enforcement act. Both bills were killed. Two bills were offered to modify and restrict the scope of the search and seizure clauses of the dry enforcement act. One bill was killed early in the session and the Sachtjen met death in the senate this week by a vote of 17 to 13.

COUNTY IS SCENE OF CHILD HEALTH DEMONSTRATION

PHYSICAL EXAMINATION OF EVERY CHILD THAT WILL ENTER SCHOOL NEXT FALL IS FIRST STEP

Every Wood county child that will ente rschool for the first time next fall will be weighed and measured and given a thorough physical examination between now and the opening of school as the first step in the carrying out of a plan devised by the bureau of child welfare to demonstrate the value of the child health work being carried on in the county. Five years later, according to the plan, another examination of all children of the same age will be made, and a comparison of the results of the two examinations will indicate the value of the health work carried on in the intervening period.

Choose Wood County

Demonstrations of the sort planned for Wood county are to be held under the supervision of the federal government in one county in each state of the union where child health work has been undertaken on any considerable scale. Wood county was selected for the Wisconsin demonstration because of the county's past record of activity in welfare work, according to officers of the county conference of social work, who are taking an active part in carrying through the program.

The work of enrolling the children and planning the examinations is being done by the county conference, of which Mrs. Wm. Kelolgg of this city is chairman, and with the cooperation of local agencies for social work in various communities throughout the county.

Special to Visit County

Practically all of the children of the county with the exception of those of the cities of Wisconsin Rapids and Marshfield will be examined on the Child Welfare Special, the bureau's specially equipped automobile, which with doctors and nurses will visit thirteen points throughout the county between May 28 and June 22. Children in the few communities not on the schedule of the Special will be visited by special examiners next fall, while the children of Marshfield and Wisconsin Rapids will probably be examined by local physicians at the time of the opening of school next fall.

Following is the schedule which will be followed by the Child Welfare Special:

May 28-29 Blenker; May 30-31, Auburndale; June 1, Hewitt; June 4-5, Lincoln town hall; June 6, Golden Glow school, town of Rock; June 7-8, Arpin; June 11-12, Vesper; June 13-14, Pittsville; June 15, Babcock; June 18, Nekoosa; June 19, Port Edwards; June 20, Biron; June 21-22, Rudolph.

Local Unit To Be Retained Says Captain

Madison, Wis., May 18—The meeting of the national guard officers here Saturday will determine the units to be mustered out of the service as a result of the reduced appropriation allowed by the legislature, it is said here.

The contemplated grant of funds, which is $345,000 smaller than granted two years ago, will necessitate the abandonement of nearly 25 units, according to reports. There are approximately 100 units now, the number of which is expected to be cut to 75 by the Saturday meeting.

Following the conference the report arrived at by the officers will be carried to Washington and arrangements for cutting the guard, will then be made, the officers say. All independent guard units are expected by them to be mustered out.

According to Captain Kraske of the local guard unit no officers from Battery E will be in attendance at the Madison meeting. When questioned as to the possibility of the local Battery being one of the units mustered out the Captain said, "No, I do not think so and in fact am reasonably sure of it. The late war proved that artillery units are one of the most effective weapons of war and the artillery units will be retained, especially units that have already proven themselves to be of high caliber.

"Cavalry units will be the first to go in my opinion and then new infantry companies that have found difficulty in recruiting a full quota will follow. Cavalry units were obsolete in the last war and only a few regiments of regular army cavalry will be retained for scouting purposes.

Drys Favorable To Referendum On Prohibition

Madison, Wis., May 18—Advocates of prohibition are heartily in favor of a referendum vote on the question of repealing the Eighteenth amendment, B. N. Hicks, legislative counsel of the Wisconsin Anti-Saloon league, declared in testifying before the assembly state affairs committee on the committee bill providing for submission of the question to the voters at the November election in 1924.

"We are perfectly willing that the people should have the opportunity of recording directly their opinion on this question, and we will gladly abide by the result," Mr. Hicks said. "It has been charged that the Anti-Saloon league is oposed to such a referendum. In answer, I will put the league on record as unqualifidly in favor of this bill.

"The Anti-Saloon league is opposed to any referendum on whether the Eighteenth amendment shall be respected and enforced. To submit to the people a referendum of this nature, would be an affront to their intelligence and citizenship. The 18th amendment is a part of the Constitution, and as such must and shall be enforced."

Mr. Hicks was the only witness to appear before the committee on the bill.

Madison, Wis., May 18—Action on Governor Blaine's tax bill was laid over until Wednesday by the Senate last night. Unanimous consent was given for this move.

The administration forces announced that they wanted more time to go over the measure before it came to a vote.

Madison, Wis., May 18—The Grandine bill prescribing how funds of the state retirement system shall be invested, was engrossed by the assembly today without a record vote.

The assembly killed after considerable debate, the labor committee bill prohibiting courts from directing special jury verdicts, except upon consent of all parties to the cause. The vote was 41 to 37.

Two appropriation measures were acted on. The Titus senate bill appropriating $5,000 for new buildings for the Hancock Experiment Station was concurred in and went to the governor.

The Peltier bill appropriating $5,000 for the construction of a school building on Washington Island was killed.

At the annual meeting of the Ninth Councilor District Medical Society, held Thursday at the Stevens Point Library Hall, it was decided to hold the mid-summer meeting of the society in Wisconsin Rapids the latter part of July. Medical men from this portion of Wisconsin comprise the Ninth Councilor District.

The meeting Thursday opened with an exhibition of clinical cases at 4 p. m., followed by a dinner at the new Hotel Whiting. After dinner the annual business meeting and election of officers took place the following being elected: Dr. Walsh, Merrill, president; Dr. J. Smith, Wausau, secretary. A series of talks on medical subjects were then given by attending physicians and surgeons. Dr. Waters, this city, was one of the speakers, giving a short talk on appendicitis.

The local doctors who attended the meeting were: Dr. Don Waters, Dr Pomainville, Dr. Looze, Dr. Goodrich Dr. Merrill, Dr. Mortenson, and Dr Hougen.

At the meeting to be held here in July it is expected that a program similar to the one carried out at the meeting yesterday will be given.

Local Showers Predicted By George T. Nixor

Wisconsin Rapids escaped the local showers that were forecasted yesterday by George T. Nixon, but weather indications for tomorrow point to cloudy and unsettled weather with local showers, and a drop in temperature. Local showers were spread over wide areas today. Vast portions of the territory west and northwest of us were visited by the local showers which were caused by disturbances in the west.

A high wind velocity was experienced over wide areas with Buffalo, N. Y., reporting a wind velocity of 68 miles per hour. Light frosts were reported over northern communities.

The warmest recorded here yesterday was 65 and the coldest 40, while a year ago the extremes were 71 and 56. The same date in 1915 a 32 mark was reached while in 1917, 84 was the highest reading on the thermometer. The sun rose this morning at 4:55 and will set this evening at 6:53.

Department of Agriculture Not Liable for Poisonings

Madison, Wis.—Representatives of the state department of agriculture who distribute poison to farmers to kill insects that infest crops are not liable for accidental poisonings if they do not violate the law.

This was the opinion of Alvin C. Reis, assistant attorney general given today at the request of C. P. Norgord, commissioner of agriculture.

In his opinion Mr. Reis said that it was necessary for representatives to use due care in the distribution of poisons.

Sixty years ago today began the famous siege of Vicksburg.

STAIRWAY FALLS AS CROWD FLEES BLAZING BUILDING

WHOLE FAMILIES WIPED OUT BY FLAMES WHICH INTERRUPTED CAROLINA GRADUATION EXERCISES.

(By Associated Press)

Camden, S. C., May 18—Seventy-one known dead and two unaccounted for was the toll of the Cleveland, S. C. school house fire last night, determined at 7:00 a. m. today.

The fire was caused by the overturning of an oil lamp on the stage during the class exercises which were being witnessed by a crowd that jammed the room. A panic followed.

Stairway Falls

The collapse of a narrow wooden stairway leading from the second floor where the entertainment, incident to the school closing, was in progress, caused many of the deaths, a number of persons being crushed in the debris. Others, cut off from escape in this way, were burned to death, while still others jumped from windows.

The school building, a two story frame building containing three school rooms, burned rapidly, and before outside aid could be summoned, nothing remained but to collect the dead and give medical care to the injured.

Whole Families Perished

All available doctors and nurses from Camden and other nearby towns were called. The death list reads like a roster of the families of the community. Family after family were virtually wiped out. In almost every instance where parents are listed as dead, from one to four children perished. Among the dead is Coroner G. L. Dixon and his young daughter.

City in Mourning

More than half of the business houses at Camden displayed crepe on their doors today, and houses all over the county were under mourning as indicating how the lives of entire families were snuffed out.

The death list showed ten of the name of Dixon, eight of McLeod, ten of Davis, five of Hendrix, and many other similar groupings.

Forty children, sixteen men and fifteen women, including a negro nurse, were burned to death, and two young men are missing.

Funeral services for the seventy odd victims who perished in the fire, will be held jointly at six o'clock this afternoon, near the ashes of the building where they met their deaths. The plan also is to bury all in the same grave.

Beer Plea Legislature's Only Wet Accomplishment

Madison, Wis.—A single resolution asking congress to amend the Volstead Act so as to permit the return of beer will be the sum total of wet legislation to be enacted by the Wisconsin legislature at this session. Both houses of the legislature have passed the Czerwinski resolution memorializing congress to amend the present laws so as to permit the sale of "good beer" for home consumption. The resolution will be enrolled and sent to members of Congress during the coming week.

Over a dozen bills on the liquor question were introduced at this session of the legislature and the dry forces were successful in burying all proposals with the exception of the Czerwinski beer memorial. Two bills were introduced at the beginning of the session for the complete repeal of the Severson dry enforcement act. Both bills were killed. Two bills were offered to modify and restrict the scope of the search and seizure clauses of the dry enforcement act. One bill was killed early in the session and the Sachtjen met death in the senate this week by a vote of 17 to 13.

LET THEM KNOW

A prominent local citizen stated publicly that the State Legislature was very much in need of advise from their constituents. He advocated a general practice of writing to Senator Smith and Assemblyman Royce at Madison to let them know the sentiments with regard to pending legislation on taxation, highways and other important subjects. The Tribune heartily concurs in that suggestion and repeats once again that the people show their feelings on the various subjects. The role of a legislator at best is a difficult task. To best serve the people a legislator must be fair and honest with his constituents and not be bound by political schemes.

The way of the politician is an easy one but the path of a stateman is a difficult course to follow. Politicians do as they are told by their political leaders and the statesman follows the best course he knows how, representing what he believes is the will of his people back home. If you want your representatives at Madison to fall into the political traps just ignore them. If you want them to vote for the interests of the majority advise them.

PRODUCTION VS. MARKETING

The attitude of the Door county farmers who are asking the abolition of the University of Wisconsin's Agricultural Experiment Station, there shows remarkably little vision on the part of those who should be the most ardent friends of such an institution.

That there is some justice to their plea that what they need to know is not how to make three blades grow where one grew before but how to sell what they are already able to produce at a profit does not change the situation. Better marketing is probably the greatest need of a majority of Wisconsin farmers, but certainly it is an equally well established fact that there is also room for the development of greater efficiency in the production of farm products.

The progressive farmer, and the one that will reap the benefit from any reform in marketing methods that may be attained, is the man who, while working actively for such reforms, is also learning new and improved methods of agriculture and is building up the productivity of his farm.

Agricultural experiment stations have thoroughly demonstrated their value, and should not be done away with merely because they do not meet all of the farmer's needs.

GOOD WAY TO ADVERTISE

A town or city that does not do community advertising is as "dead as a doornail." There are many good ways in which a community may keep from being as dead as the proverbial doornail. To our way of reasoning, the various convention, group meetings, district association gatherings such as the Paper Mill Superintendents meeting now in session offers one effective medium.

Lodge and association gatherings bring the most active of members, the most interested of people to the meetings and they are all worthwhile people to entertain because they are capable of appreciating the hospitality shown them and realize clearly the things of value a community has to offer. Such people usually go away boosters and a good booster is a good advertiser.

Lets have more of such gatherings.

SELF TONED ANGORA ADDS FLUFFINESS

Hand knit sweaters and articles for personal wear made of Iceland Luster, Silverglow or the heavier yarns are combined with self-toned Angora to give a fluffy effect. Such a combination of yarns adds softness and makes the garment look more dressy than the plain sweaters.

Angora can be had in all colors these days. Most of the articles made are so many inches of the worsted yarns and then a row or two of the plain combined with the Angora; or the Angora can be used by itself.

THEY DON'T SEEM TO BE HATCHING OUT RIGHT

Turkish Proverbs.

"To kill two birds with one stone," in Turkish is "Cleaning the candlestick to filch the rice." "If the thief is strong enough he will arrest the householder" is the Turkish way of implying that a culprit may be clever enough to incriminate his victim. "Whom the gods wish to destroy they first deprive of reason" has its parallel in the Turkish proverb, "The end of an overexcited dog is the mange."

The Nuisance in the Triangle.

State Constitutions.

State constitutions reveal the continuity in the development of American political institutions. They have been called by Bryce "the oldest things in the political history of America, for they are the continuations and representations of the colonial charters." And again, "the first state constitutions were little more than the pre-existing colonial constitutions adapted to the changed circumstances."

The photographer meant little in the lives of these youngsters, snapped at the "Homecoming" held in connection with the observance of National Hospital Day at Riverview Hospital last Saturday. The picture shows only a part of the fifty Wisconsin Rapids babies who came back to the hospital to renew their acquaintance with their first home.

Farmers Of Door County Fight Experiment Station

CLAIM 1,000 SIGNERS TO ABOLITION PETITION; SAY FARMERS KNOW MORE THAN UNIVERSITY EXPERTS

Madison, Wis.—The fight by farmers against appropriating money to the state college of agriculture which has been waged all session has found a new target in the move to abolish the Door county experimental station.

Bernard Hahn, Door county farmer, is leading the opposition to the station and he claims that he has 1,000 signers to a petition for its abolition.

"City people want experiment stations for the farmers but farmers don't," Hahn declares. He declares that any farmer can show any member of the university faculty a lot of things they don't know about farming.

In spite of his opposition, Hahn declares that he does not believe his move to abolish the station will succeed but he is waging a campaign to cut the appropriation as low as possible. The station was given an appropriation of $12,000 a year when it was instituted.

The opponents to the station are members of the same group of farmers who objected to the university's agricultural work because they do not want to learn how to make "three blades grow where one grew before." What they want to know, they declare, is how to get more money from the crops they know how to raise.

Marshfield Man Guilty of Stealing from Railroad Co.

Marshfield, Wis.—Nick Easker, 300 North Central avenue, appeared in Judge Andrews court Wednesday and paid a fine of $25 and costs on a charge of petty larceny, for the theft of three brass journal box parts from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company's yards here.

Subsequent to the arrest it was discovered by Chief of Police Michael Griffin that Easker had taken other property from the railroad company, including thirty gallons of kerosene, four gallons of linseed oil, twenty gallons of gasoline, four tons of coal, 400 feet of lumber and three oil cans five and fifteen gallons capacity. The value of the loot was approximately $100 and upon Easker's payment to the company of that amount he was released from custody of the law.

Easker entered the employ of the railroad company seven years ago and during the past few years has been section foreman.

Graduate License Fee for Autos Killed by Senate

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis. May 18.—The senate killed 26 to 8, the general committee on highway bill proposing a graduated license fee on automobiles based upon weight, to raise $8,000,000 annually for construction and maintenance of a 10,000 mile trunk highway system.

This action followed the indefinite postponement of the committee bill calling for a two cent gasoline tax to raise $3,000,000 for support of a rural road construction program.

Complete Plans For Banquet And Dance Wednesday

SELF TONED ANGORA ADDS FLUFFINESS

Hand knit sweaters and articles for personal wear made of Iceland Luster, Silverglow or the heavier yarns are combined with self-toned Angora to give a fluffy effect. Such a combination of yarns adds softness and makes the garment look more dressy than the plain sweaters.

Angora can be had in all colors these days. Most of the articles made are so many inches of the worsted yarns and then a row or two of the plain combined with the Angora: or the Angora can be used by itself.

Applique

Here's a new wrinkle in applique brought out by a French house a short time ago. It is velvet appliqued on white organdie. Such a comprehensive use of applique means that there is another way to create the startling designs which every smart dress must have this season.

Boy Scouts Will Go On Mystery Hike Tomorrow

The 150 boy scouts of the Wisconsin Rapids, Biron, Port Edwards and Nekoosa troops will participate tomorrow evening in the annual "Mystery Hike" which has become an important feature of the activities of the local scouts.

Scout Executive J. H. Wilcox has selected a meeting place at which the scouts of the various troops will meet at the end of the hike, and routes to be followed by each troop have been mapped out.

The scoutmaster of each troop has been supplied with two sealed envelopes giving complete directions. The first of these will be opened at 5:30, when the scouts meet at their respective troop headquarters preparatory to starting on the hike. This will contain directions, different for each troop, as to where they are to go to prepare their supper. Following supper the second envelope will be opened, and this will outline a route to the spot where all of the troops will meet.

Deputy Commissioner Harmon Voskuil has prepared a program which will be given after all of the troops arrive at the common meeting place.

Each boy that goes on the hike is required to bring with him materials for the preparations of his own supper in the open. The program has been planned so that all of the boys will be able to return home by 10 p. m.

The picture shows only a part of the fifty Wisconsin Rapids babies who came back to the hospital to renew their acquaintance with their first home.

Farmers Of Door County Fight Experiment Station

CLAIM 1,000 SIGNERS TO ABOLITION PETITION; SAY FARMERS KNOW MORE THAN UNIVERSITY EXPERTS

Madison, Wis.—The fight by farmers against appropriating money to the state college of agriculture which has been waged all session has found a new target in the move to abolish the Door county experimental station.

Bernard Hahn, Door county farmer, is leading the opposition to the station and he claims that he has 1,000 signers to a petition for its abolition.

"City people want experiment stations for the farmers but farmers don't," Hahn declares. He declares that any farmer can show any member of the university faculty a lot of things they don't know about farming.

In spite of his opposition, Hahn declares that he does not believe his move to abolish the station will succeed but he is waging a campaign to cut the appropriation as low as possible. The station was given an appropriation of $12,000 a year when it was instituted.

The opponents to the station are members of the same group of farmers who objected to the university's agricultural work because they do not want to learn how to make "three blades grow where one grew before." What they want to know, they declare, is how to get more money from the crops they know how to raise.

Marshfield Man Guilty of Stealing from Railroad Co.

Marshfield, Wis.—Nick Easker, 300 North Central avenue, appeared in Judge Andrews court Wednesday and paid a fine of $25 and costs on a charge of petty larceny, for the theft of three brass journal box parts from the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad company's yeards here.

Subsequent to the arrest it was discovered by Chief of Police Michael Griffin that Easker had taken other property from the railroad company, including thirty gallons of kerosene, four gallons of linseed oil, twenty gallons of gasoline, four tons of coal, 400 feet of lumber and three oil cans five and fifteen gallons capacity. The value of the loot was approximately $100 and upon Easker's payment to the company of that amount he was released from custody of the law.

Easker entered the employ of the railroad company seven years ago and during the past few years has been section foreman.

Graduate License Fee for Autos Killed by Senate

(By Associated Press)

Madison, Wis. May 18.—The senate killed 26 to 8, the general committee on highway bill proposing a graduated license fee on automobiles based upon weight, to raise $8,000,000 annually for construction and maintenance of a 10,000 mile trunk highway system.

This action followed the indefinite postponement of the committee bill calling for a two cent gasoline tax to raise $3,000,000 for support of a rural road construction program.

BLAINE PRAISES NORWEGIANS FOR LOVE OF LIBERTY

IN ADDRESS AT MINNEAPOLIS CELEBRATION GOVERNOR DECRIES RACE PREJUDICES AS UNAMERICAN

Minneapolis, Minn.—Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, speaking last night on the occasion of the celebration of Norway's independence, made a plea for toleration in the attitude of native Americans toward the different nationalities that make up this country. The governor in the course of his talk praised particularly the Norwegians who he said had "pointed the way to all peoples of the earth how democracy might be attained."

Intolerance American

"We not feel ashamed as Americans to recognize the influence of blood," Governor Blaine said. "America's strength and power and influence is due to the result that has been brought about by the intermingly of blood of the best races of the white civilization.

"Any narrow, bigoted view of nationalities and races that might be or that is attempted to be imposed upon the American people today is contrary to our traditions and our institutions and damns the fathers and mothers who made nations possible. Such spirit of intolerance because of races and nationlities is undemocratic and un-American, and unworthy of those who are protected by a government founded and preserved by men from Valley Forge to Gettysburg.

Norway Sets Example

"Norway," the governor said, "exhibits and example to all the world and the tenacity and determination of her people through centuries to maintain her existence as a people of other countries and sustain them in their struggles for a national existence.

"Norwegian blood has made its impress upon American history and American institutions. The Norwegian people have demonstrated their right to enjoy the blessings of our institutions. They came to the great Northwest, and they and their descendents settled upon the farms built factories, cooperated in guiding public affairs, and to their honor let it be said that they have always been forward looking and progressive in all their civic and political undertakings You will find the Norwegian people in every community looking toward a better day, when the burden of the masses may be made lighter and when justice may be done to a greater number."

Measure Grants Right to Placard Unfit Buildings

Madison, Wis.—Buildings considered as unfit for human habitation may hereafter be placarded by city building inspectors and their use prohibited, as the result of Governor Blaine's signature today to a public welfare committee bill.

City inspectors are given power to placard the places of residence which are unsanitary or unfit for human habitation.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE LEGISLATURE

By O. D. BRANDENBERG

Legislaors have free tickets to all university athletic events, and attend to a considerable extent. Sergeant-at-Arm Bartingale expresses the opinion that it's a shame when one player knocks the ball far out in the field that all is spoiled by some other player catching it.

Matter for publication by the university, the normal schools and the State Historical society may be censored to the extent that the governor can "cause the withdrawal of any printing requisition if in his opinion public policy demands it or if the edition seems excessive," but in such cases he must hear the statement of the requisitioning officer and communicate the reasons for his action. It is doubtful indeed if the perogative ever will be exercised, abuses that might provoke intervention are heavy. A scrimping illustration is altogether more apt to run light than heavy. A schimping illustration is found in the case of the daily calendars of senate and assembly. Often it is impossible to obtain them. "All Out," echoes the document room attendant laconically, as he turns to the game of checkers, all the vogus now in his realm.

Professor Rasmus S. Anderson, former minister to Denmark, though three years Knute Nelson's junior nevertheless was his teacher after the civil war in Albion academy. The great senator fell behind in his grades in consequence of being a soldier. So too did Anderson, a professor at 20, teach J. Q. Emery, state dairy and food commissioner, and a few more of his elder. Professor Anderson's means of preventing war is arbitration, each contending nation selecting two umpires and these another this tribunal then preceding directly to business and settling the trouble for them so simply so promptly. With the costliness and the inexpediency of a world court he has no patience. Professor Anderson's speical interest in international questions dates from his diplomatic days in Denmark. He is a rare and beloved old philosopher, and several of his "old boys" of varsity days forty years ago gladly greet him in legislative halls.

In that simpler era long ago preceptors often were not confined to a single specialty. As an example, Professor Anderson taught Latin, Norske and I am not sure but German and ancient history also, in the university. He is a pre-eminent Norse scholar, and his wonderful Norse mythology issule nearly half a century ago augmented his fame greatly in literary circles. And what rare trick we once played upon him! An examination in Latin was on the topic and a few of us girls and boys alike, got our heads together before entering the classroom and agreed to set the good professor to taling at once his beloved mythology. Seductive questions for the professor's consideration wore hastily allotted, and these were to be propounded one at a time to keep the professor so occupied that he could have no opportunity to proceed with the examinations. The scheme worked perfectly and we kept the delightful man going with glowing enthusiasm ever increasing over picturesque fiords hardy vikings and wonderful follore, and especially Lief Erickson's cock-sure discovery of America: thus the whole hour glided happily by, our teacher in his glory at such flattering interest manifested by these students in the mythology of the midnight sun: till finally, smiling bemingly over the room he rismissed the class saying it had been so excellent in its work day by day that no examination really was necessary.

A possibility exists of a vigorous combing of the body of state inspectors which almost congets our transportation facilities at times, a bill having been introduced which provides that the board of public affairs must "investigate the duplication of travel and visits on the part of inspectors for the various state departments, and report results to the legislature with specific recommedations. If this procedure is executed conscientiously a cloud of colliding inquisitors may be disperced. This bill is 420s, and its fate may be watched with hope mixed with misgivings.

Young Man With Ability to Narrate Held in Jail

A young man blessed with so many names that he doesn't know which one is really his, is now lodged in the county jail after being picked up by Marshall Favell, Pittsville, last Monday, as a suspicious character.

When in the lock-up at Pittsville the young man seemed to take great delight in entertaining a large audience with a story of his life and his ability to stretch stories which would make Frank Bacon, now deceased, of "Lightning" Bill Jones fame, hide his face with shame. Lightning Bill's story about herding a wild bunch of bees across the great desert, after many perils, only to have them die when they got to the hives, is a weak attempt when compared with the wild stories of the new lodger at the local jail.

Although apparently a young man, the stories he has told of his adventures could not be crowded into Methusulah's life and his experiences, a la Nic Carter, are surging with thrills and narrow escapes.

Boy Scouts Will Go On Mystery Hike Tomorrow

The 150 boy scouts of the Wisconsin Rapids, Biron, Port Edwards and Nekoosa troops will participate tomorrow evening in the annual "Mystery Hike" which has become an important feature of the activities of the local scouts.

Scout Executive J. H. Wilcox has selected a meeting place at which the scouts of the various troops will meet at the end of the hike, and routes to be followed by each troop have been mapped out.

The scoutmaster of each troop has been supplied with two sealed envelopes giving complete directions. The first of these will be opened at 5:30, when the scouts meet at their respective troop headquarters preparatory to starting on the hike. This will contain directions, different for each troop, as to where they are to go to prepare their supper. Following supper the second envelope will be opened, and this will outline a route to the spot where all of the troops will meet.

Deputy Commissioner Harmon Voskuil has prepared a program which will be given after all of the troops arrive at the common meeting place.

Each boy that goes on the hike is required to bring with him materials for the preparations of his own supper in the open. The program has been planned so that all of the boys will be able to return home by 10 p. m.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT MADISON

ATHLETES FROM ALL OVER STATE ARE ENTERED; TWO RECORDS HAVE STOOD THE TEST OF TIME

Local athletes and others were interested last night in an address by Prof. T. E. Jones, Director of Physical Education of the University of Wisconsin, which was broadcasted over the University Radio.

Coach Jones, speaking on the Twenty-ninth Annual Interscolastic Track and Field meet to be held under the auspices of the University at Madison, May 26 where nearly 1,000 of the best high school athletes of the state will compete: "Every high school athlete in Wisconsin has two special ambitions—to win his event in the State Interscolastic, and to break the Interscholastic record in that event.

Two Ancient Records

"Of the fourteen events the state records in two, the 220 yard dash and the running broad jump, have stood since 1899, when each was made by a Milwaukee high school student, now middle-aged men. The records in the fourteen events are held by ten different schools, only three high schools, Oshkosh, Milwaukee North and Riverside, holding two each.

"The purpose of the Interscholastic meet is to bring the best athletes of the various high schools together in competition and at the same time give them an opportunity to visit their University and learn something of College spirit.

"To want to run and jump is the ambition of every boy; to be a champion of his state, his county, his city, his school or even his block is another ambition of every able-bodied youth and the educators of the country have recognized the advantage of interesting the youth in track and field sports for the training it affords the body and mind.

Individual Merit Counts

"Other branches of athletics, such as football baseball, basketball, etc., require skill, speed, and above all, team work, but the track and field sports depend on the speed, the grit and endurance of the individual. He must put his whole heart, his whole soul into his work in competition with dozens of others who are just as determined as himself, and defeat only makes him more determined to win next time.

"Track athletics is the oldest of sports, dating away back in history. Three of our greatest Presidents Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt exponents of the rugged outdoor life, were themeselves athletes of ability. Washington was a champion sprinter, Lincoln, in his youth as a rail-splitter was said to have jumped over a ditch 24 feet wide, while Roosevelt was a hurdler.

Derby Crowd Is On Hand; Zev To Be Sure Starter

Louisville, Ky.—The advance guard of the Derby invasion had Louisville well in hand Thursday. While the cream of the world's 3-year-old thoroughbreds were entering the final phases of their preparation for the running of America's richest stake at Churchill Downs Saturday each hour added to the list of arrivals of turf enthusiasts.

Indications now are that Chicago is to contribute the largest delegation to the colorful Derby day host. It was announced Thursday that Frank Parker accompanied by Mrs. Parker and a party of friends would fly from Chicago to Louisville in the airplane which was one of those used recently to carry food to a party of woodchoppers marooned on South Fox island, in Lake Michigan.

Zev Sure To Start

Trainer S. C. Hildreth was reported to have wired that Zev had been shipped in time to arrive late Thursday. Observers commented freely on the fact that Zev's presence in the race might have a significant bearing on the result, declaring that much would depend on the pace set for the field.

Estimates relative to the probable Derby field place the number of starters at from 16 to 22. Martingale, Calcutta, Aspiration, Nassau, Chittagong, Prince K. Wide, Bo McMillan, Enchantment, Rialto, Picketer, In Memoriam, Gen. Thatcher and Vigil are listed as among those most certain of going to the post. Additional starters are expected to be drawn from a list made up of Anna M. Humphrey, Better Luck, Golden Rule, Pravus, Great Luck, Rigel, Cherry Pie, Zev, Barbery Bush, Chickvale, The Clown and Bright Tomorrow.

Data Shows Electrical Expansion in 32 Years

Chicago.—The average use of electricity per capita in Chicago has jumped from approximately 2 kilowatt hours in 1922, according to statistical data just completed by the Commonwealth Edison Company which furnishes Chicago with its electricity.

The report states that the connecting lighting and power load at the end of 1922 was 1,553,890 kilowatts, or the equivalent of 31,077,812 incandescent lamps of 50 watts each. This compares with a connected load of the equivalent of 21,560 lamps in 1889.

The number of customers increased 73,321 during 1922, making a total of 610,203. The company's announcement state that "this increase alone is equal to the total number of families and industries using electricity in the state of Arkansas, or sufficient to provide a supply to a city of about 220,000 population, such as Indianapolis or Kansas City."

To generate electricity demanded by customers, the company used 2,416,131 tons of coal in 1922. Thru efficient use of coal the amount used last year was 120,000 tons less than that used in 1921.

The announcement adds: "The company holds the distinction of never having its rates this being true even during the difficult war period when there was an increase in prices of all commodities except electricity.

As indicating what has occured relative to the customers light bill in 1905 a dollar would purchase about 3,000 candle hours of light. In 1922 it would buy 18,000 candle hours. Between 1905 and 1922 lamp efficiency increased 56 perecent, and the total increase for a dollar was 665 percent."

Heavy Wheat Crops Are Forecasted for England

London—The popular notion that England is played out as a wheat producing country is all wrong, according to Professor Biffen of Cambridge University. His admirers here say that he knows more about wheat than anybody in this country, and some maintain that he is the greatest authority on the subject in the world.

He addressed the Bedfordshire Chamber of Agriculture on wheat the other day. He told its members that "in a very short time Engrish wheat growing is going to come into its own." There would then, he said, be money made out of wheat raised by British farmers despite the vast crops of wheat grown in other parts of the globe.

In America, he said, the population was growing more rapidly than the wheat area, and in course of time there would no longer be a huge surplus to send to this country or anywhere else.

"England," declared Prof. Biffin, "is easily the best wheat producing country in the world with its average of 32 bushels to the acre, whereas the average for the world is a trifle over 12 bushels to the acre."

Poland Will Demolish Artistic Russian Church

Warsaw—During the Russian regime a Russian cathedral was erected in Warsaw. Richly decorated with paintings and wonderful mosaics, it was an object of admiration of all foreigners who visited the city. To the Poles, however, it was but another symbol of Russian oppresion.

When, in 1915, the Russians withdrew from Warsaw, the first impulse of the populace was to destroy this cathedral, but other council prevailed. The Germans in their occupation of Warsaw stripped it of its bronze roofs, which they replaced with wooden ones. But these roofs afforded poor protection against the weather, and it was soon found neccesary to close the cathedral.

Owing to its present dilapidated condition and the reluctance of the Poles to spend money on the restoration of a monument which has always been hateful to them, it has been decided that it shall be pulled down. Before starting on the actual demolition of the cathedral, however, other more pressing works will be taken in hand, so that the delay still gives a little hope to those who are against its destruction.

Welcome Paper Mill Superintendents.

Wisconsin Rapids takes great pleasure in entertaining the annual convention of Paper Mill Superintendents for the Northwestern District, one of the seven districts comprising the national body, and one of the largest and most active.

There are two great paper manufacturing districts in this country, the New York and New England group, and the Lake Superior region. The latter comprises the state of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. The Northwestern district of Paper Mill Superintendents comprises Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northern Michigan and its membership is approximately two hundred. These are the men that see that the wheels go around in fifty-eight mills on the upper Mississippi, Rainy, Fox, Peshtigo, Menominee, Wisconsin and other rivers whose very names bring with them the smell of spruce, hemlock and balsam and the sound of rushing waters as, at points along their course, they plunge toward the lower levels. It takes no divining rod to find the location of our paper mills—they have been built on such streams as these where the main requisites for paper making are found.

This convention of representatives of a broad, basic industry is of peculiar interest and importance to Wisconsin Rapids at this time. The development of the paper industry here means many new industries to the city itself. This city is the logical place for the various paper industries with its large factories, central location, railroad facilities and cheap power.

The purpose of this organization is a broad, practical, constructive co-operation which inevitably will prove of permanent and ever-increasing benefit to our Community and to our country. A great purpose when one considers that timber is being consumed four times faster than it is being replaced. A certain newspaper, it is estimated, requires for one year's supply of newsprint, the product of a century's growth on 7,500 acres of spruce forest.

This is one of the biggest and most important conventions that Wisconsin Rapids has entertained in a long while and as the purpose of this meeting is the interchange of ideas there will be many prominent speakers who will make addresses which will be instructive and informative.

With the feeling of kinship and pride which we feel toward the paper industry we extend to the members of the convention a cordial greeting and a hearty invitation to visit our shop, there to inspect at first hand the great care with which we reconstruct the motors entrusted to us for repair. In our work you will see the great truth that "Where Quality Prevails, Satisfaction Is Eternal."

Our repair service is unsurpassed by any other organization and we can serve you profitably just the same as we are serving a score of others. We would appreciate an interview to answer any question that you may ask relative to our ability to "deliver the goods."

BLAINE PRAISES NORWEGIANS FOR LOVE OF LIBERTY

IN ADDRESS AT MINNEAPOLIS CELEBRATION GOVERNOR DECRIES RACE PREJUDICES AS UNAMERICAN

Minneapolis, Minn.—Governor Blaine of Wisconsin, speaking last night night on the occasion of the celebration of Norway's independence, made a plea for toleration in the attitude of native Americans toward the different nationalities that make up this country. The governor in the course of his talk praised particularly the Norwegians who he said had "pointed the way to all peoples of the world how democracy might be attained."

Intolerance American

"We not feel ashamed as Americans to recognize the influence of blood," Governor Blaine said. "America's strength and power and influence is due to the result that has been brought about by the intermingly of blood of the best races of the white civilization.

"Any narrow, bigoted view of nationalities and races that might be or thatis attempted to be imposed upon the American people today is contrary to our traditions and our institutions and damns the fathers and mothers who made nations possible. Such spirit of intolerance because of races and nationalities is undemocratic and un-American, and unworthy of those who are protected by a government founded and preserved by men from Valley Forge to Gettysburg.

Norway Sets Example

"Norway," the governor said, "exhibits and example to all the world and the tenacity and determination of her people through centuries to maintain her existence as a people of other countries and sustain them in their struggles for a national existence.

"Norwegian blood has made its impress upon American history and American institutions. The Norwegian people have demonstrated their right to enjoy the blessings of our institutions. They came to the great Northwest, and they and their descendents settled upon the farms built factories, cooperated in guiding public affairs, and to their honor let it be said that they have always been forward looking and progressive in all their civic and political undertakings You will find the Norwegian people in every community looking toward a better day, when the burden of the masses may be made lighter and when justice may be done to a greater number."

SIDELIGHTS ON THE LEGISLATURE

By O. D. BRANDENBERG

Legislaors have free tickets to all university athletic events, and attend to a considerable extent. Sergeant-at Arm Bartingale expresses the opinion that it's a shame when one player knocks the ball far out in the field that all is spoiled by some other player catching it.

Matter for publication by the university, the normal schools and the State Historical society may be censored to the extent that the governor can "cause the withdrawal of any printing requisition if in his opinion public policy demands it or if the edition seems excessive," but in such cases he must hear the statement of the requisitioning officer and communicate the reasons for his action. It is dougtful indeed if the perogative ever will be exercised, abuses that might provoke intervention are heavy. A scrimping illustration is altogether more apt to run light than heavy. A schimping illustration is found in the case of the daily calendars of senate and assembly. Often it is impossible to obtain them. "All Out," echoes the document room attendant laconically, as he turns to the game of checkers, all the vogus now in his realm.

Professor Rasmus S. Anderson, former minister to Denmark, though three years Knute Nelson's junior nevertheless was his teacher after the civil war in Albion academy. The great senator fell behind in his grades in consequence of being a soldier. So too did Anderson, a professor at 20, teach J. Q. Emery, state dairy and food commissioner, and a few more of his elder. Professor Anderson's means of preventing war is arbitration, each contending nation selecting two umpires and these another this tribunal then preceeding directly to business and settling the trouble for them so simply so promptly. With the costliness and the inexpediency of a world court he has no patience. Professor Anderson's speical interest in international questions dates from his diplomatic days in Denmark. He is a rare and beloved old philosopher, and several of his "old boys" of varsity days forty years ago gladly greet him in legislative halls.

In that simpler era long ago preceptors often were not confined to a single specialty. As an example, Professor Anderson taught Latin, Norske and I am not sure but German and ancient history also, in the university. He is a pre-eminent Norse scholar, and his wonderful Norse mythology issule nearly half a century ago augmented his fame greatly in literary circles. And what rare trick we once played upon him! An examination in Latin was on the topic and a few of us girls and boys alike, got our heads together before entering the classroom and agreed to set the good professor to taling at once his beloved mythology. Seductive questions for the professor's consideration wore hastily allotted, and these were to be propounded one at a time to keep the professor so occupied that he could have no opportunity to proceed with the examinations. The scheme worked perfectly and we kept the delightful man going with glowing enthusiasm ever increasing over picturesque fiords hardy vikings and wonderful follore, and especially Lief Erickson's cock-sure discovery of America: thus the whole hour glided happily by, our teacher in his glory at such flattering interest manifested by these students in the mythology of the midnight sun: till finally, smiling beningly over the room he rismissed the class saying it had been so excellent in its work day by day that no examination really was necessary.

A possibility exists of a vigorous combing of the body of state inspectors which almost congets our transportation facilities at times, a bill having been introduced which provides that the board of public affairs must "investigate the duplication of travel and visits on the part of inspectors for the various state departments, and report results to the legislature with specific recommedations. If this procedure is executed conscientiously a cloud of colliding inquisitors may be dispereed. This bill is 420s, and its fate may be watched with hope mixed with misgivings.

Young Man With Ability to Narrate Held in Jail

A young man blessed with so many names that he doesn't know which one is really his, is now lodged in the county jail after being picked up by Marshall Favell, Pittsville, last Monday, as a suspicious character.

When in the lock-up at Pittsville the young man seemed to take great delight in entertaining a large audience with a story of his life and his ability to stretch stories which would make Frank Bacon, now deceased, of "Lightning" Bill Jones fame, hide his face with shame. Lightning Bill's story about herding a wild bunch of bees across the great desert, after many perils, only to have them die when they got to the hives, is a weak attempt when compared with the wild stories of the new lodger at the local jail.

Although apparently a young man, the stories he has told of his adventures could not be crowded into Methusulah's life and his experiences, a la Nic Carter, are surging with thrills and narrow escapes.

Blind Soldiers Are Able to Support Selves

Berlin.—Only 20 per cent of Germany's 2,547 completely blinded war veterans are without vocation, the federal minister of labor announces. Sixty per cent have taken up other careers than they followed before being blinded 12.5 per cent remained at their former employment, and 7.5 per cent are occupied a part of the time. Statistics of the year 1900 show that only 21.5 per cent of the completely blinded at that time were in employment.

Canada to Resume Work on Hudson Bay Railroad

Ottawa, Ont.—Work of completing the Hudson Bay Railway will soon be undertaken according to an announcement by Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways. The Canadian house of commons recently approved a proposal to institute construction of the last 100 miles or rail.

The road will extend from the Pas Man., on the Canadian National Railways to Port Nelson on Hudson Bay, a distance of 434 miles. Of this distance 332 of steel have already been completed at a cost of $30,000,000. An expenditure of over $2,000,000 will be needed to complete the road, according to Mr. Graham.

The development of Western Canada will, it is expected be greatly stimulated by the opening of the new route to tidewater. By Way of Port Nelson the road will shorten by 1,000 miles the railway haul of grain, livestock and other commodities bound for Europe from the prairie provinces.

Free Theater Tickets Are Discontinued in Vienna

Vienna.—The Commissioner of Retrenchments has put a stop to the heavy losses incurred by the state theaters in the granting of passes and the sale of seats under the standard prices. Being state institutions, the theaters in the past have been bled by state functionaries to a degree that promised financial ruin. Only 43 percent of the tickets were placed on sale at standard prices; the remainder was subject to heavy discounts of free distribution.

Henceforth only a few boxes will be reserved for complimentary allotment to persons of importance: the public will have a fair chance to buy every other seat in the house.

Greek Army and Navy Dismiss Foreign Tutors

Athens.—Greece's army, navy and police will no longer be under foreign tutelage. For reasons of economy the government has decided to abrogate its contracts with British naval mission, the French military mission and the Italian police mission, granting their members six months pay in lieu of notice.

The only mission remaining in Greece now is the British police mission, under Sir Frederick Halliday, which has been here since 1919 and has done good work in reorganizing the Greek police on the lines of the London police force. The government's decision will be a severe blow to the foreign naval and military missions whose members drew not only salaries from their own countries but from the Greek government as well.

Says He Gained 15 Lbs. Taking Tanlac; Feels Years Younger

"Tanlac cured my indigestion and built me up fifteen pounds," is the characteristic statement of A. L. Chroninger, retired farmer of White Springs, Mo.

"For two years I was in a fearful shape with indigestion, was fearfully nervous could get no restful sleep and was badly constipated. I lost so much weight my clothes just hung on me like a bag. Even after a light meal I was distressed by gas, sourness, a stuffed up feeling and palpitation of the heart, and the sharp pains nearly late me out.

"But Tanlac plowed out of my troubles and today I feel twenty years younger. I have the appetite of a school-boy, sleep like a top and keep stacking up new energy right along. I'm sure am thankful for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

INTERSCHOLASTIC TRACK AND FIELD MEET AT MADISON

ATHLETES FROM ALL OVER STATE ARE ENTERED; TWO RECORDS HAVE STOOD THE TEST OF TIME

Local athletes and others were interested last night in an address by Prof. T. E. Jones, Director of Physical Education of the University of Wisconsin, which was broadcasted over the University Radio.

Coach Jones, speaking on the Twenty-ninth Annual Interscolastic Track and Field meet to be held under the auspices of the University at Madison, May 26 where nearly 1,000 of the best high school athletes of the state will compete: "Every high school athlete in Wisconsin has two special ambitions—to win his event in the State Interscolastic, and to break the Interscholastic record in that event.

Two Ancient Records

"Of the fourteen events the state records in two, the 220 yard dash and the the running broad jump, have stood since 1899, when each was made by a Milwaukee high school student, now middle-aged men. The records in the fourteen events are held by ten different schools, only three high schools, Oshkosh, Milwaukee North and Riverside, holding two each.

"The purpose of the Interscholastic meet is to bring the best athletes of the various high schools together in competition and at the same time give them an opportunity to visit their University and learn something of College spirit.

"To want to run and jump is the ambition of every boy; to be a champion of his state, his county, his city, his school or even his block is another ambition of every able-bodied youth and the educators of the country have recognized the advantage of interesting the youth in track and field sports for the training it affords the body and mind.

Individual Merit Counts

"Other branches of athletics, such as football baseball, basketball, etc., require skill, speed, and above all, team work, but the track and field sports depend on the speed, the grit and endurance of the individual. He must put his whole heart, his whole soul into his work in competition with dozens of others who are just as determined as himself, and defeat only makes him more determined to win next time.

"Track athletics is the oldest of sports, dating away back in history. Three of our greatest Presidents, Washington, Lincoln and Roosevelt exponents of the rugged outdoor life, were themeselves athletes of ability. Washington was a champion sprinter, Lincoln, in his youth as a rail-splitter was said to have jumped over a ditch 24 feet wide, while Roosevelt was a hurdler.

Derby Crowd Is On Hand; Zev To Be Sure Starter

Louisville, Ky.—The advance guard of the Derby invasion had Louisville well in hand Thursday. While the cream of the world's 3-year-old thoroughbreds were entering the final phases of their preparation for the running of America's richest stake at Churchill Downs Saturday each hour added to the list of arrivals of turf enthusiasts.

Indications now are that Chicago is to contribute the largest delegation to the colorful Derby day host. It was announced Thursday that Frank Parker accompanied by Mrs. Parker and a party of friends would fly from Chicago to Louisville in the airplane which was one of those used recently to carry food to a party of woodchoppers marooned on South Fox island, in Lake Michigan.

Zev Sure To Start

Trainer S. C. Hildreth was reported to have wired that Zev had been shipped in time to arrive late Thursday. Observers commented freely on the fact that Zev's presence in the race might have a significant bearing on the result, declaring that much would depend on the pace set for the field.

Estimates relative to the probable Derby field place the number of starters at from 16 to 22. Martingale, Calcutta, Aspiration, Nassau, Chittagong, Prince K. Wida, Bo McMillan, Enchantment, Rialto, Picketer, In Memoriam, Gen. Thatcher and Vigil are listed as among those most certain of going to the post. Additional starters are expected to be drawn from a list made up of Anna M. Humphrey, Better Luck, Golden Rule, Pravus, Great Luck, Rigel, Cherry Pie, Zev, Barberry Bush, Chickvale, The Clown and Bright Tomorrow.

Data Shows Electrical Expansion in 32 Years

Chicago.—The average use of electricity per capita in Chicago has jumped from approximately 2 kilowatt hours in 1922, according to statistical data just completed by the Commonwealth Edison Company which furnishes Chicago with its electricity.

The report states that the connecting lighting and power load at the end of 1922 was 1,553,890 kilowatts, or the equivalent of 31,077,813 incandescent lamps of 50 watts each. This compares with a connected load of the equivalent of 21,560 lamps in 1889.

The number of customers increased 73,321 during 1922, making a total of 610,203. The company's announcement state that "this increase alone is equal to the total number of families and industries using electricity in the state of Arkansas, or sufficient to provide a supply to a city of about 330,000 population, such as Indianapolis or Kansas City."

To generate electricity demanded by customers, the company used 2,416,131 tons of coal in 1922. Thru efficient use of coal the amount used last year was 120,000 tons less than that used in 1921.

The announcement adds: "The company holds the distinction of never having its rates this being true even during the difficult war period when there was an increase in prices of all commodities except electricity.

As indicating what has occured relative to the customers light bill in 1905 a dollar would purchase about 3,000 candle hours of light. In 1922 it would buy 18,000 candle hours. Between 1905 and 1922 lamp efficiency increased 56 perecent, and the total increase for a dollar was 665 percent."

Heavy Wheat Crops Are Forecasted for England

London—The popular notion that England is played out as a wheat producing country is all wrong, according to Professor Biffen of Cambridge University. His admirers here say that he knows more about wheat than anybody in this country, and some maintain that he is the greatest authority on the subject in the world.

He addressed the Bedfordshire Chamber of Agriculture on wheat the other day. He told its members that "in a very short time Engrish wheat growing is going to come into its own." There would then, he said, be money made out of wheat raised by British farmers despite the vast crops of wheat grown in other parts of the globe.

In America, he said, the population was growing more rapidly than the wheat area, and in course of time there would no longer be a huge surplus to send to this country or anywhere else.

"England," declared Prof. Biffin, "is easily the best wheat producing country in the world with its average of 32 bushels to the acre, whereas the average for the world is a trifle over 12 bushels to the acre."

Poland Will Demolish Artistic Russian Church

Warsaw—During the Russian regime a Russian cathedral was erected in Warsaw. Richly decorated with paintings and wonderful mosaics, it was an object of admiration of all foreigners who visited the city. To the Poles, however, it was but another symbol of Russian oppresion.

When, in 1915, the Russians withdrew from Warsaw, the first impulse of the populace was to destroy this cathedral, but other council prevailed. The Germans in their occupation of Warsaw stripped it of its bronze roofs, which they replaced with wooden ones. But these roofs afforded poor protection against the weather, and it was soon found necessary to close the cathedral.

Owing to its present dilapidated condition and the reluctance of the Poles to spend money on the restoration of a monument which has always been hateful to them, it has been decided that it shall be pulled down. Before starting on the actual demolition of the cathedral, however, other more pressing works will be taken in hand, so that the delay still gives a little hope to those who are against its destruction.

The Honor of a Flower!

Pure, spotless and tender is the fragrant Flower that conveys our message of love, sadness and honor to those great Heroes of our country who have died that we might live!

There is no greater homage that can be paid to them—words are said and pass on through the air—actions are but lasting for the moment—Flowers carry the sweet sentiment of love and wither and die over the graves of our heroes—as they have died for us.

We are equipped to fill your order for Memorial Day Flowers. Phone No. 25 to insure prompt delivery.

Welcome Paper Mill Superintendents.

Wisconsin Rapids takes great pleasure in entertaining the annual convention of Paper Mill Superintendents for the Northwestern District, one of the seven districts comprising the national body, and one of the largest and most active.

There are two great paper manufacturing districts in this country, the New York and New England group, and the Lake Superior region. The latter comprises the state of Wisconsin, Minnesota and Michigan. The Northwestern district of Paper Mill Superintendents comprises Wisconsin, Minnesota and Northern Michigan and its membership is approximately two hundred. These are the men that see that the wheels go around in fifty-eight mills on the upper Mississippi, Rainy, Fox, Peshtigo, Menominee, Wisconsin and other rivers whose very names bring with them the smell of spruce, hemlock and balsam and the sound of rushing waters as, at points along their course, they plunge toward the lower levels. It takes no divining rod to find the location of our paper mills—they have been built on such streams as these where the main requisites for paper making are found.

This convention of representatives of a broad, basic industry is of peculiar interest and importance to Wisconsin Rapids at this time. The development of the paper industry here means many new industries to the city itself. This city is the logical place for the various paper industries with its large factories, central location, railroad facilities and cheap power.

The purpose of this organization is a broad, practical, constructive co-operation which inevitably will prove of permanent and ever-increasing benefit to our Community and to our country. A great purpose when one considers that timber is being consumed four times faster than it is being replaced. A certain newspaper, it is estimated, requires for one year's supply of newsprint, the product of a century's growth on 7,500 acres of spruce forest.

This is one of the biggest and most important conventions that Wisconsin Rapids has entertained in a long while and as the purpose of this meeting is the interchange of ideas there will be many prominent speakers who will make addresses which will be instructive and informative.

With the feeling of kinship and pride which we feel toward the paper industry we extend to the members of the convention a cordial greeting and a hearty invitation to visit our shop, there to inspect at first hand the great care with which we reconstruct the motors entrusted to us for repair. In our work you will see the great truth that "Where Quality Prevails, Satisfaction Is Eternal."

Our repair service is unsurpassed by any other organization and we can serve you profitably just the same as we are serving a score of others. We would appreciate an interview to answer any question that you may ask relative to our ability to "deliver the goods."

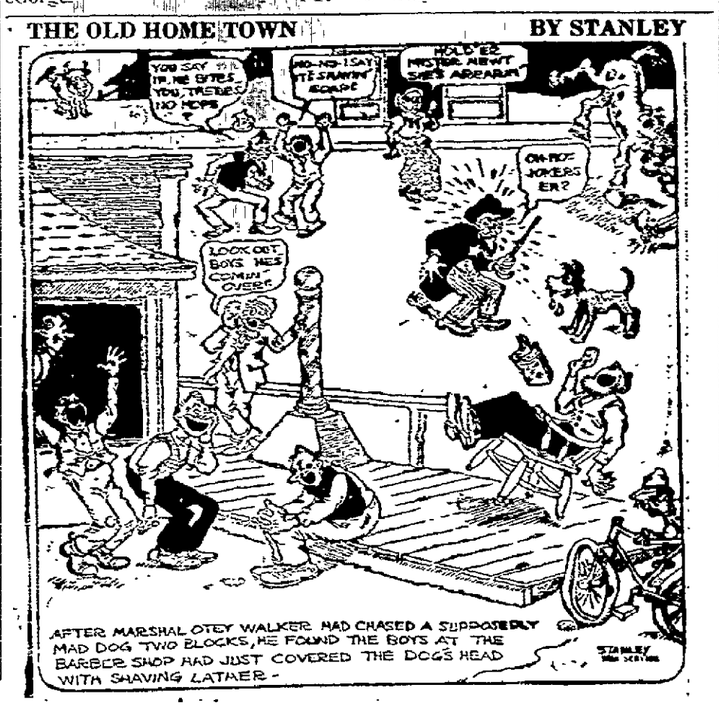
THE OLD HOME TOWN BY STANLEY



BEGIN HERE TODAY

The Basques of Paradise Valley, at the instigation of Buck Bodine, new owner of the old Webster place, blow up a dam built by Dick Acklin, big boss of the Double A ranch. Mercedes Arrascada tries to save the dam by jumping aboard a float bearing dynamite to the dam. The float catches fire and Mercedes is rescued by Kildare, one of Acklin's men. Esteban Arrascada is severely wounded in the skirmish which ensues.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

His head fell forward. The little circle of men grew quiet. Blaze put his ear to the boy's heart.

"He's not dead," he breathed hopefully. "Somebody get my horse. I'm going to get him to the doctor. God knows, he may have a chance."

Acklin said nothing as his men helped Kildare.

"Where've you got Bodine" he demanded when Blaze had left.

"Got him?" Cash questioned. "I ain't got him nowhere."

"What?"

"No. I ain't seen Bodine. I was just runnin' a windy on the kid. I picked up the fresh trail of three horses this evening. They had come in from Webster Creek. I've been chasin' back and forth tryin' to pick 'em up in the dark, or I'd 'a' been here sooner."

"What made you think Bodine was among them?"

"Shucks! You don't think there's anyone else down there with the nerve or brains to do this thing. It took an old hand to make a mine that would rip out that wall. I knew Bodine was behind the whole thing."

"Who do you think was the third man?"

Cash shook his head.

"I ain't even got a guess."

Acklin contorted his mouth nervously.

"No matter," he said after an interval. "We'll make Bodine tell befor we get through. "We'll all ride to the ranch first. I'm going to turn out every man we've got. Cash. We'll throw a circle over this country that no one'll crawl through. If we pick up Bodine, he'll be among the dear departed by morning."

Morrow's eyes bulged.

"You mean you're goin' to stretch him?" he gasped.

"That's exactly what I mean," Acklin growled.

CHAPTER XXX

Among the Ruins

BODINE had relieved Romero of the responsibility of getting Mercedes and Basilio out of the path of the flood. Finding Mercedes gone, Buck picked up the child and dashed for Webster Creek. The explosion came as he entered the ranch-house.

Shorty, lantern in hand, followed him inside.

"Guess we had company this afternoon," he growled. "A lady at that!"

Taking Shorty's lantern, the big fellow followed the trail Esteban and Romero and he had taken that afternoon. A few minutes' search convinced him that his supposition was correct; Mercedes had followed them into the hills! Her only object could have been to stop them. Well, she had been to late, or had missed her brother altogether.

It was the work of a minute for him to pen a note to her. To prove his point with the girl, he mad the child scrawl an attempt at his name across the bottom of the note. This accomplished, he sent Shorty to deliver it.

Gloomy and the others lounged about the room.

Basilio, in the next room, began crying.

"Somebody shut that kid up," Buck bellowed.

Speculation as to Acklin's discomfiture had worn itself out. Gloomy yawned. One of the others got up.

"Guess I'll turn in. The show's over."

Buck had done his share of the talking in the time that had elapsed since Shorty left, but his nimble brain had been busy with matters alien to the conversation. His men were surprised, therefore, when he said:

"Boys, I don't think you'd better roost here tonight."

"We might scare the lady, eh?" Gloomy questioned.

"Don't you worry 'bout the lady," Buck said easily. "She don't enter into it at all." As a matter of truth, Mercedes' coming was in part responsible for Bodine's desire to get his men away.

"We'll have visitors before morning," he went on; "and they won't be scort he went on thes gfact,lrs ladies," Even if those two boys keep their mouths shut, Acklin may get the hunch that we were mixed up in this thing. I'll bet his men are scourin' the hills right now. If they come here, Morrow might trip some of you boys. If I'm alone, there won't be anybody to do the answerin' but me. Drift into the hills in back of old Liotard's place. Shorty'll be along. If I build a fire tomorrow morning, come in. It'll be all right. You better saddle up."

Buck fanned the coals in the kitchen stove into a tiny blaze when they had gone. Next he filled the coffe-pot. When he had set it on the fire, he propped up his chair and fell to dreaming.

Shorty had not yet reached the Rancho. Buck had sent him with a team and a light wagon, with instructions to take the short cut east of the cemetery in Paradise. But he had turned back and had followed the main road to Winnemucca almost to the Little Washoe before he dared to strike eastward to the hacienda.

Mercedes and Melody had met with similiar conditions. After several unsuccessful attempts to get across the valley, the poet had found t necessary to retrace their way and get into the hills, where they had found the old wood road that came down through Smoky Canon.

The girl was exhausted. Melody wondered how she clung to her horse. He tried to cheer her up, but it was a hopeless task. For at least the twentieth time, he told the girl that some one must have taken Basilio to safety. He had knowledge that warranted his certainty. His words sounded empty even to himself the last time he uttered them. So, in silence, they covered the last half-mile. After four or five unsuccessful attempts, Melody found a way through the choked creek-bottom.

He was in the lead when they came out and was the first to catch sight of the flood-swept home. Both wings of the house were gone. not a sign remained of barns or corrals.

Melody knew Mercedes had come up beside him, but he could not take his eyes away from the ruins.

The cow-boy nerved himself to face the girl beside him. She was staring fixedly at all that was left of the once beautiful hacienda. It had been the only home Mercedes had ever known. Every childhood memory centered within the walls. Under other circumstances its destruction would have crushed her; but she had been through too much this night already. Her nerves and emotions had lost the power to react to further torture.

She was dazed by what she beheld. She wanted to dash into the ruins and search with feverish haste for Basilio, but a trance-like lethargy enveloped her. It frightened Melody more than tears. His voice quivered uncertainly as he spoke to her.

"I'll take a look inside, if you'll wait out here."

"No. I'll go with you."

"You better not do that," the cow-boy begged. "Things'll be torn up pretty bad in there."

"But B-B-Basilio." She hesitated over the word.

"I tell you, we won't find him, Senorita. He ain't here."

It was his old assertion. Mercedes had moved ahead of him. If she were determined to search the ruins, it would be useless for him to try to hold her back. It would be better to stay at her side and back her up if she did not find anything.

It took him some time to clear a passage into that part of the house which had escaped total destruction. A foot of mud and debris covered the floors. Furniture was piled on end. Great holes gaped in the walls where the plaster had given way.

Melody found a lamp upstairs. He called time after time for the child before he came down. Mercedes had cried out, too, but they got no answer. With the aid of the light, they went over the wreckage carefully, but not a trace of the child or of the two old servants was to be had.

Faith in his own prophecy began to grow in the red-haired one.

"I knew somebody had got them out," he stated.

"Maybe they got lost when they try to run," Mercedes murmured mournfully.

"No! The flood came too quick for that. If they hadn't been warned they'd be right here. We'll find them at some of the neighbors to the west. If you say so, we'll go now."

"I best stay here, Senor. I'm tired . . . so tired. You will go quicker by yourself."

"But I can't leave you here all alone in this place. You'd be scared to death. It looks haunted."

She smiled at him tenderly.

"There is nothing here to frighten me, my friend. Mercedes knows every rock and stone in this house. If spirits come here, they must be the spirits of those who loved me: my mother—or my father . . . My good father!"

"He was that, all right," Melody snapped out. "He was a hundred per cent."

The cow-boy gazed at the door. I'll be blubberin' like a kid if I don't get out of here in a hurry," he murmured to himself. Aloud he said:

"I'll wait here till you get upstairs. It'll be light in three hours. Now don't get nervous. I won't come back without him."

A few minutes later she heard him riding away.

CHAPTER XXXI

The Note on the Door

MELODY had instilled in Mercedes some degree of confidence in his ability to find Basilio. It sustained her, now that she was alone; that, and her faith in Kildare. She could count on him. He had even defied Acklin for her.

She tried to mutter a prayer, but mind and body were so exhausted that the effort was incoherent. With the little strenght that remained in her, she managed to get to the bed that stood in the center of the room. Undressing was beyond her. She tried to unlace her boots but her eyes closed.

Navy Will Abandon Many of the Radio Stations

Great Lakes, Ill.—The navy department has decided to abandon virtually all of its radio service on the Great Lakes, with the exception of the radio-compass stations, and will shortly advertise eight wireless stations for sale. Lack of men and money to operate them led to the decision to abandon the plants.

An inventory of the material and supplies to be sold is being prepared by the district communications superintendent, Lieu. A. G. Berry, preparatory to the advertising for bids.

The stations to be abandon are ocated at Alpena, Mich., Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, Mackinac Island, Milwaukee and Manistique, Mich. Stations at Chicago, Great Lakes and Eagle Harbor will be retained, in addition to the radio compass stations at Detour, Grand Marais and Whitefeild Point, Mich. The three radio-compass stations safeguard vessles passing through the fog enshrouded lower end of Lake Superior, Whitefish Bay and St. Mary's river.

Besides handling the radio business of the lakes the station to be closed have taken care of most of the commercial messages passing between Great Lakes ships and the shore. The strictly commercial radio companies have never invaded the Great Lakes field, and, with the exception of a few stations privately owned by steamship companies, virtually all business has been handled by the navy radio.

Former leaseholders may renew their contracts before March 20th. Blind Soldiers Are Able to Support Selves

Berlin.—Only 20 per cent of Germany's 2,547 completely blinded war veterans are without vocation, the federal minister of labor announces. Sixty per cent have taken up other careers than they followed before being blinded 12.5 per cent remained at their former employment, and 7.5 per cent are occupied a part of the time. Statistics of the year 1900 show that only 21.5 per cent of the completely blinded at that time were in employment.

Canada to Resume Work on Hudson Bay Railroad

Ottawa, Ont.—Work of completing the Hudson Bay Railway will soon be undertaken according to an announcement by Hon. George P. Graham, minister of railways. The Canadian house of commons recently approved a proposal to institute construction of the last 100 miles or rail.

The road will extend from the Pas Man., on the Canadian National Railways to Port Nelson on Hudson Bay, a distance of 434 miles. Of this distance 332 of steel have already been completed at a cost of $30,000,000. An expenditure of over $2,000,000 will be needed to complete the road, according to Mr. Graham.

The development of Western Canada will, it is expected be greatly stimulated by the opening of the new route to tidewater. By Way of Port Nelson the road will shorten by 1,000 miles the railway haul of grain, livestock and other commodities bound for Europe from the prairie provinces.

Free Theater Tickets Are Discontinued in Vienna

Vienna.—The Commissioner of Retrenchments has put a stop to the heavy losses incurred by the state theaters in the granting of passes and the sale of seats under the standard prices. Being state institutions, the theaters in the past have been bled by state functionaries to a degree that promised financial ruin. Only 43 percent of the tickets were placed on sale at standard prices; the remainder was subject to heavy discounts of free distribution.

Henceforth only a few boxes will be reserved for complimentary allotment to persons of importance; the public will have a fair chance to buy every other seat in the house.

Greek Army and Navy Dismiss Foreign Tutors

Athens.—Greece's army, navy and police will no longer be under foreign tutelage. For reasons of economy the government has decided to abrogate its contracts with British naval mission, the French military mission and the Italian police mission, granting their members six months pay in lieu of notice.

The only mission remaining in Greece now is the British police mission, under Sir Frederick Halliday, which has been here since 1919 and has done good work in reorganizing the Greek police on the lines of the London police force. The government's decision will be a severe blow to the foreign naval and military missions whose members drew not only salaries from their own countries but from the Greek government as well.

Says He Gained 15 Lbs. Taking Tanlac; Feels Years Younger

"Tanlac overcame my indigestion and built me up fifteen pounds," is the characteristic statement of A. L. Chroninger, well-known farmer of Willow Springs, Mo.

"For two years I was in awful shape with indigestion, was fearfully nervous could get no restful sleep and was badly rundown. I lost so much weight my clothes just hung on me like a bag. Even after a light meal I was distressed by gas, sourness, a stuffed up feeling and palpitation of the heart, and the sharp pains nearly laid me out.

"But Tanlac ploughed out all my troubles and today I feel twenty years younger. I have the appetite of a school-boy, sleep like a top and keep stacking up new energy right along. I sure am thankful for Tanlac."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Stevens Point Family May Share In Half-Billion Estate

FORTUNE AWAITS HEIRS IF CLAIMS TO EASTERN PROPERTY ARE SUSTAINED IN COURTS; MILLIONS AT STAKE

Stevens Point, Wis.—The G. C. Springer family of Stevens Point, F. R. Springer, who recently moved to Sheboygan from Almond, and relatives at Almond and elsewhere are heirs to a contested estate valued at $500,000,000 and attempts are being renewed at this time to win the fortune at stake. F. R. Springer is now in Chicago to meet with 39 other heirs in an effort to straighten out legal tangles which have long existed.

Dates Back to 1798

The Springer estate dates from 1798, when Charles Christopher Springer received from the United States government as a reward for distinguished military service a tract of land consisting of 2,654 acres near Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Springer later leased this land, which at that time was of little value, for a term of 99 years. In the meantime Wilmington grew and the land is now in the heart of that city. The lease recently expired and the heirs are now seeking to straighten out the title to the land and settle the estate.

Millions at Stake

G. C. and F. R. Springer are great great grandsons of the first owner of the land and the share of each may amount to about $12,000,000 if the heirs win in their fight, it is believed. A preparation of more than 10 years has been made in anticipation of the expiration of the lease, according to the Springers. Many of the original papers have been lost and it required much time to locate them. A book on the genealogy of the Springer family has been compiled during this time and includes hundreds of pages.

Many Local Heirs

John H. Springer, the oldest of three brothers, has been in the east for three years working with other heirs toward a settlement of the estate. Members of the G. C. Springer family here include a daughter, Miss Loretta, who is a rural supervising teacher in the Portage county schools. Other relatives, besides members of the local family are Mrs. M. Casey and Mrs. D. E. Trickey, both of Almond, and Miss Verna Sprinter a teacher at Fond du Lac, all three daughter of F. R. Springer. Miss Verna will not return to the Fond du Lac schools another year, having tendered her resignation to take effect at the close of the present term. At Fond du Lac, where she was interviewed by reporters, she laughingly denied that she was giving up teaching because of the probable shower of gold that awaits her. Her plans for next year do not include matrimony either, she asserted.

No Prediction

G. C. Springer, when interviewed today, told of the long efforts of members of the family to acquire the fortune which they believe is theirs but would make no predictions as to the possible success of the conference of heirs in their quest for the millions.

LOCAL WOMAN AN HEIR

Mrs. C. M. Renne of this city, whose home is on Eighth street south, is a direct descendant of Charles Christopher Springer, a division of whose estate, now valued at $500,000,000, is being sought by heirs at Stevens Point and other cities.

Mrs. Renne's great-grandmother was a daughter of the man to whom the United States government deeded the Delaware property as a reward for distinguished military service.

Although her claim to a share in the property is undoubtedly as good as any, Mrs. Renne does not expect to receive anything. Her branch of the family made an unsuccessful attempt to establish a claim to the property about thirty years ago, and is not participating in the present effort of heirs at Stevens Point to gain a division of the now immensely valuable estate.

Mabel E. Elliott Wins Praise of Greek People

Paris—Gratitude by the Greeks for the big philanthropic things the American people are doing for that refugee-ridden country continues to find earnest expression. Every American who comes to Paris from Athens speaks of the modest devotion of the American relief workers there still engaged in grappling with the huge problem which resulted from the dumping on the Grecian shores of over a million moneyless, clotheless and homeless refugees from Turkey.

And especially do they dwell upon the extraordinary achievements of an American woman physician, Dr. Mabel E. Elliot of New York, who has, working quite alone, organized the housing and feeding of ten thousand Greek men, women and children on a small island on the Aegean Sea. They say that this demure, frail looking American crusader seems endowed with almost super-human powers of endurance. She toils from early morn until late at night, nourishing the hungry, administering to the sick, and organizing sanitary conditions. The Grecian people hold her in the highest esteem.

A recent number of the newspaper L'Echo d'Orient, published at Athens, contains a glowing tribute to the American people for what they have done for suffering Greece. "Obeying the economic law that liches should circulate the American people do not forget," says the article, "that to find happiness one must have as much heart as gold. Uncountable multitudes already owe Americans their lief, and across the centuries Christian history will record this fact in profound admiration."

Chinese Merchant Upholds National Repute for Honesty

Shanghai—Charges voiced in an address by John Johnstone, head of one of the oldest and what has been the largest foreign commercial house in China, Jardine, Matheson and Company, that Chinese business morality in the present age swiftly is growing decadent, and that the modern Chinese business man has fallen away from the old idea of Chinese honesty, has brought a reply from H. Y. Moh, who is perhaps the leader among the Chinese cotton magnates.

Mr. Moh declares that Chinese business morals have not deteriorated but, in all responsible quarters, have been kept to the high plane they always have enjoyed. The fault, he said, was with th foreign merchant in choosing more or less at random those with whom he dealt, and failing to investigate properly the characters of newcomers in the business world.

All Rail Supervisors Are Now in One Big Union

St. Louis—All railroad supervisors are now eligible to membership of the Railroad Supervisors, and by this action it is expected that the membership of the association will be increased immediately from 30,000 to 170,000, according to W. V. O'Neil, president of the organization.

The former name of the organization was the "International Association of Railroad Supervisors of Mechanics" and only supervisors of railroad mechanics were eligible to membership. Now, however, Mr. O'Neil pointed out, all railroad employees holding supervisory positions will be eligible as members. "The railroad executives have given enthusiastic approval to the new move," said Mr. O'Neil, as railroads will be guaranteed constant supervision.

"In the past a substantial number of supervisors were unorganized and others were affiliated with organizations of employees other than our boby, and under these circumstances it has not been possoble to have any uniformity of action. Now, however, we are in a position to see tha all supervisory positions are filled with experienced men, and this will not only help the roads, but will also guarantee a certain amount of safety to the general public that heretofore has not been possible, as the supervisors are not only responsible to the rialroads but are also responsible to us."

Mr. O'Neil announced that the executive committee of his organization had authorized the establishment here of a national bank and the purchase of an office building for general headquarters of the association.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womanhood. After suffering pain feeling nervous, dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr Pierce's Favorite Prescription has ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's called Anuric (for kidneys and backaches) has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefit received— that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptons of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. any of his remedies or write for free medical advice.

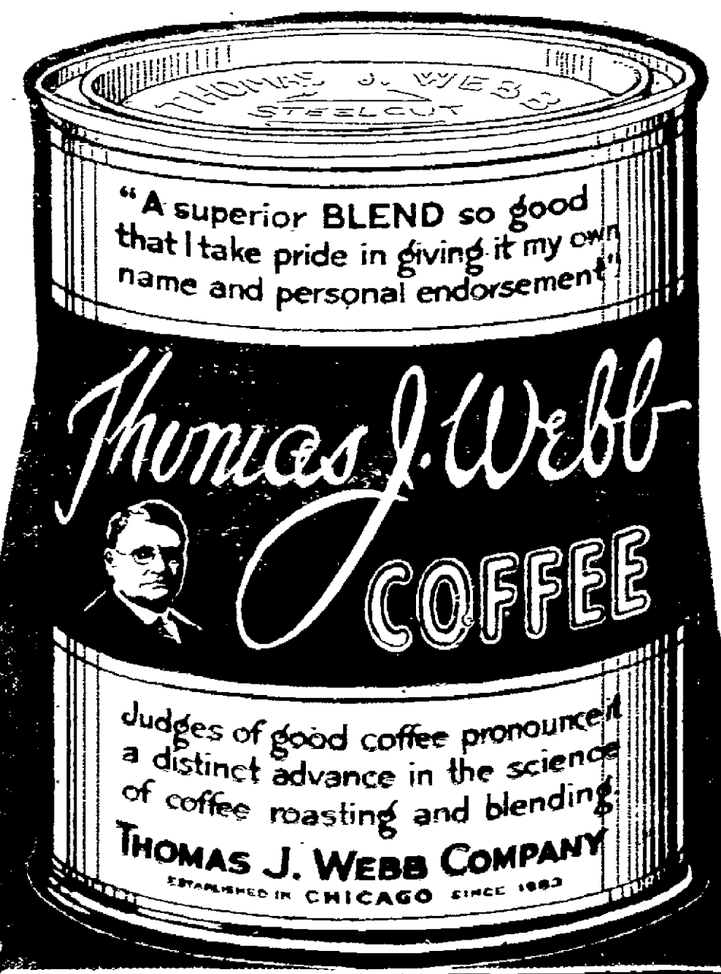
What do you ask of good Coffee?

What is it that prompts you to say "That's just right" when you taste an exceptional coffee?



Simmer it down to one word and you'll probably answer "Flavor." But did it ever occur to you that that thing called "flavor" in good coffee could never be produced by nature alone? Did you know that coffee beans taken from any one coffee plant could never produce a drinkable coffee?

Coffee flavor is a matter of blending—blending one coffee crop with another. And blending requires years and years of experience.

That's why the flavor of Thomas J. Webb Coffee is so far superior to that of ordinary coffees. The skill used in its blending is responsible for its unusual goodness.

And the fact that Thomas J. Webb Coffee is used by more people wherever it is sold than any other coffee is a popular recommendation that proves the blend must be right.

Be fair to yourself. Try Thomas J. Webb Coffee just once. Ask your grocer today.

THOMAS J. WEBB CO.
CHICAGO

The extreme care taken in producing a coffee blend so rare as Thomas J. Webb Coffee calls for unusual methods in its roasting and packing . . . lest any of its precious flavor be wasted before it reaches the user.

For that reason Thomas J. Webb Coffee is roasted in the "live flame"—an exclusive roasting process that seals all the flavor in the coffee bean.

It is packed in an air-tight metal container which safeguards its freshness—insures its unmixed flavor.

Superior Blending makes it "The Coffee of Unusual Goodness"

THE OLD HOME TOWN BY STANLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The Basques of Paradise Valley, at the instigation of Buck Bodine, new owner of the old Webster place, blow up a dam built by Dick Acklin, big boss of the Double A ranch. Mercedes Arrascada tries to save the dam by jumping aboard a float bearing dynamite to the dam. The float catches fire and Mercedes is rescued by Kildare, one of Acklin's men. Esteban Arrascada is severely wounded in the skirmish which ensues.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

His head fell forward. The little circle of men grew quiet. Blaze put his ear to the boy's heart.

"He's not dead," he breathed hopefully. "Somebody get my horse. I'm going to get him to the doctor. God knows, he may have a chance."

Acklin said nothing as his men helped Kildare.

"Where've you got Bodine" he demanded when Blaze had left.

"Got him?" Cash questioned. "I ain't got him nowhere."

"What?"

"No. I ain't seen Bodine. I was just runnin' a windy on the kid. I picked up the fresh trail of three horses this evening. They had come in from Webster Creek. I've been chasin' back and forth tryin' to pick 'em up in the dark, or I'd 'a' been here sooner."

"What made you think Bodine was among them?"

"Shucks! You don't think there's anyone else down there with the nerve or brains to do this thing. It took an old hand to make a mine that would rip out that wall. I knew Bodine was behind the whole thing."

"Who do you think was the third man?"

Cash shook his head.

"I ain't even got a guess."

Acklin contorted his mouth nervously.

"No matter," he said after an interval. "We'll make Bodine tell befor we get through. "We'll all ride to the ranch first. I'm going to turn out every man we've got, Cash. We'll throw a circle over this country that no one'll crawl through. If we pick up Bodine, he'll be among the dear departed by morning."

Morrow's eyes bulged.

"You mean you're goin' to stretch him?" he gasped.

"That's exactly what I mean," Acklin growled.

CHAPTER XXX

Among the Ruins

BODINE had relieved Romero of the responsibility of getting Mercedes and Basilio out of the path of the flood. Finding Mercedes gone, Buck picked up the child and dashed for Webster Creek. The explosion came as he entered the ranch-house.

Shorty, lantern in hand, followed him inside.

"Guess we had company this afternoon," he growled. "A lady at that!"

Taking Shorty's lantern, the big fellow followed the trail Esteban and Romero and he had taken that afternoon. A few minutes' search convinced him that his supposition was correct; Mercedes had followed them into the hills! Her only object could have been to stop them. Well, she had been to late, or had missed her brother altogether.

It was the work of a minute for him to pen a note to her. To prove his point with the girl, he had the child scrawl an attempt at his name across the bottom of the note. This accomplished, he sent Shorty to deliver it.

Gloomy and the others lounged about the room.

Basilio, in the next room, began crying.

"Somebody shut that kid up," Buck bellowed.

Speculation as to Acklin's discomfiture had worn itself out. Gloomy yawned. One of the others got up.

"Guess I'll turn in. The show's over."

Buck had done his share of the talking in the time that had elapsed since Shorty left, but his nimble brain had been busy with matters alien to the conversation. His men were surprised, therefore, when he said:

"Boys, I don't think you'd better rest here tonight."

"We might scare the lady, eh?" Gloomy questioned.

"Don't you worry 'bout the lady," Buck said easily. "She don't enter into it at all." As a matter of truth, Mercedes' coming was in part responsible for Bodine's desire to get his men away.

"We'll have visitors before morning," he went on; "and they won't be scort he went on thes thes gfactlrs ladies," Even if those two boys keep their mouths shut, Acklin may get the hunch that we were mixed up in this thing. I'll bet his men are scourin' the hills right now. If they come here, Morrow might trip some of you boys. If I'm alone, there won't be anybody to do the answerin' but me. Drift into the hills in back of old Liotard's place. Shorty'll be along. If I build a fire tomorrow morning, come in. It'll be all right. You better saddle up."

Buck fanned the coals in the kitchen stove into a tiny blaze when they had gone. Next he filled the coffe-pot. When he had set it on the fire, he propped up his chair and fell to dreaming.

Shorty had not yet reached the Rancho. Buck had sent him with a team and a light wagon, with instructions to take the short cut east of the cemetery in Paradise. But he had turned back and had followed the main road to Winnemucca almost to the Little Washoe before he dared to strike eastward to the hacienda.

Mercedes and Melody had met with similiar conditions. After several unsuccessful attempts to get across the valley, the poet had found t necessary to refrace their way and get into the hills, where they had found the old wood road that came down through Smoky Canon.

The girl was exhausted. Melody wondered how she clung to her horse. He tried to cheer her up, but it was a hopeless task. For at least the twentieth time, he told the girl that some one must have taken Basilio to safety. He had knowledge that warranted his certainty. His words sounded empty even to himself the last time he uttered them. So, in silence, they covered the last half-mile. After four or five unsuccessful attempts, Melody found a way through the choked creek-bottom.

He was in the lead when they came out and was the first to catch sight of the flood-swept home. Both wings of the house were gone. Not a sign remained of barns or corrals.

Melody knew Mercedes had come up beside him, but he could not take his eyes away from the ruins.

The cow-boy nerved himself to face the girl beside him. She was staring fixedly at all that was left of the once beautiful hacienda. It had been the only home Mercedes had ever known. Every childhood memory centered within the walls. Under other circumstances its destruction would have crushed her; but she had been through too much this night already. Her nerves and emotions had lost the power to react to further torture.

She was dazed by what she beheld. She wanted to dash into the ruins and search with feverish haste for Basilio, but a trance-like lethargy enveloped her. It frightened Melody more than tears. His voice quavered uncertainly as he spoke to her.

"I'll take a look inside, if you'll wait out here."

"No, I'll go with you."

"You better not do that," the cow-boy begged. "Things'll be torn up pretty bad in there."

"But B-B-Basilio." She hesitated over the word.

"I tell you, we won't find him, Senorita. He ain't here."

It was his old assertion. Mercedes had moved ahead of him. If she were determined to search the ruins, it would be useless for him to try to hold her back. It would be better to stay at her side and back her up if she did not find anything.

It took him some time to clear a passage into that part of the house which had escaped total destruction. A foot of mud and debris covered the floors. Furniture was piled on end. Great holes gaped in the walls where the plaster had given way.

Melody found a lamp upstaires. He called time after time for the child before he came down. Mercedes had cried out, too, but they got no answer. With the aid of the light, they went over the wreckage carefully, but not a trace of the child or of the two old servants was to be had.

Faith in his own prophecy began to grow in the red-haired one.

"I knew somebody had got them out," he stated.

"Maybe they got lost when they try to run," Mercedes murmured mournfully.

"No! The flood came too quick for that. If they hadn't been warned they'd be right here. We'll find them at some of the neighbors to the west. If you say so, we'll go now."

"I best stay here, Senor. I'm tired . . . so tired. You will go quicker by yourself."

"But I can't leave you here all alone in this place. You'd be scared to death. It looks haunted."

She smiled at him tenderly.

"There is nothing here to frighten me, my friend. Mercedes knows every rock and stone in this house. If spirits come here, they must be the spirits of those who loved me; my mother—or my father . . . My good father!"

"He was that, all right," Melody snapped out. "He was a hundred per cent."

The cow-boy gazed at the door. "I'll be blubberin' like a kid if I don't get out of here in a hurry," he murmured to himself. Aloud he said:

"I'll wait here till you get upstairs. It'll be light in three hours. Now don't get nervous. I won't come back without him."

A few minutes later she heard him riding away.

CHAPTER XXXI

The Note on the Door

MELODY had instilled in Mercedes some degree of confidence in his ability to find Basilio. It sustained her, now that she was alone; that, and her faith in Kildare. She could count on him. He had even defied Acklin for her.

She tried to mutter a prayer, but mind and body were so exhausted that the effort was incoherent. With the little strenght that remained in her, she managed to get to the bed that stood in the center of the room. Undressing was beyond her. She tried to unlace her boots but her eyes closed.

Navy Will Abandon Many of the Radio Stations

Great Lakes, Ill.—The navy department has decided to abandon virtually all of its radio service on the Great Lakes, with the exception of the radio-compass stations, and will shortly advertise eight wireless stations for sale. Lack of men and money to operate them led to the decision to abandon the plants.

An inventory of the material and supplies to be sold is being prepared by the district communications superintendent, Lieu. A. G. Berry, preparatory to the advertising for bids.

The stations to be abandon are located at Alpena, Mich., Buffalo, Cleveland, Detroit, Duluth, Mackinac Island, Milwaukee and Manistique, Mich. Stations at Chicago, Great Lakes and Eagle Harbor will be retained, in addition to the radio compass stations at Detour, Grand Marais and Whitefeild Point, Mich. The three radio-compass stations safeguard vessles passing through the fog enshrouded lower end of Lake Superior, Whitefish Bay and St. Mary's river.

Besides handling the radio business of the lakes the station to be closed have taken care of most of the commercial messages passing between Great Lakes ships and the shore. The strictly commercial radio companies have never invaded the Great Lakes field, and, with the exception of a few stations privately owned by steamship companies, virtually all business has been handled by the navy radio.

Austrian Youths Emigrate

More than 3,700 were under 21 years of age. They went to the United States, Brazil, Argentina, Egypt, Palestine, the Dutch Colonies, Mexico and Russia. Only 2,190 paid their own transportation.

VLADIVOSTOK—The Department of Furs and Fisheries has issued a declaration that all old contracts entered into by the department, before the advent of the Red troops into the Primoria now are null and void. Former leaseholders may renew their contracts before March 20th. All other fishing leases will be put up for auction and the terms under which fisheries may be leased will be published by the Government.

All foreigners, as well as Russians, may take up fisheries on the conditions offered by the government.

Nekoosa Has Model Camp Site For Visiting Tourists

KITCHEN, TWO MESS SHEDS, SWIMMING POOL AND PLEASANT SURROUNDINGS FAVOR SITE

Now that the time of tourist parties is at hand the attention of many small cities and villages is turned to the tourist's parks or free camping grounds where the tourists are provided with many conveniences through the thoughtfulness of leading citizens in the various communities.

Nekoosa Takes Lead

Nekossa, our small but progressive neighbor to the south of us, is one of the most forward in the matter of providing the tourist with many of the comforts that he would enjoy at home. Their camp site is one that could be used as a model by many of the cities of the state, which are favored with much greater wealth and population, but not with any greater amount of enterprise and zeal than that exhibited by leading citizens of Nekoosa who are determined to push Nekoosa to the front of the hospitality list.

During the summer of 1921, when Brownie and the Poor Cuss, Milwaukee Journal mud-hounds, were casting about the state in one of their annual road finding and ditch digging enterprizes they came to this section of the state and were entertained by Nekoosa citizens. Brownie spoke of the advantage of the tourist camp sites and the good it would bring the city. Shortly after leading citizens of the community, members of the Chamber of Commerce and the city officials got together and decided to install a free camping ground for tourists.

With this in view a committee was appointed to go into details with the result that the site was picked on the west side of the river adjoining state road 13. Here a kitchen was erected, a cook stove was installed, and two mess sheds were erected, their beauty conforming with the natural scenic beauty of the location.

Build Swimming Pool

Not be outdone by any other community the enterprizing citizens decided to build a municipal swimming pool just across the road from the tourist camp site and include it as part of the camping ground equipment. Work was started immediately upon the project and it was shortly completed, affording Nekoosa and her tourist visitors an excellant and safe place to take their daily plunge. That this move was greatly appreciated by the tourists is evidenced by the large number of tourists who stop there daily to accept the hospitality of Nekoosa and the advantages of her swimming pool.

The ease with which the tourist camp grounds may be reached shows the unselfish attitude of Nekoosa. Located in the heart of the city, on state road 13, the direct route from the Dells to the northern lakes, the park is within the reach of all tourists and it shows that Nekoosa is willing to share her advantages with the tourist.

Improvements on Ohio Begin to Show Results

Pittsburgh—First results of the federal government's intention to continue improvements on the Ohio River are seen here in the announcemnet of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company that it had awarded contracts for steamboats, barges and landings to the extent of about $1,000,000, the money to be available for immediate expenditure.

Plans of Pittsburgh district steel companies for use of the Ohio river to take their products to market include a water route to points on the lower Ohio and on the Mississippi. At these points the shipments are transferred to railroads, and then moved forward to their destinations. Mill traffic managers hold that this system enables them to get shipments out of the congested Pittsburgh district in short order and deliver them to southern railroads which, being much less congested, are able to have them over to the consumer at a considerable saving of time. In some instances the water route from Pittsburgh to the southern port about equals the haul after delivery to the railroad, but in many cases such as the shipment of oil well material to the Arkansas, Lousiana and Oklahoma fields, the rail haul is considerably shorter.

Another element which encourages steel manufacturers to use the Ohio is the amount of material which a tow can handle. Sometimes one boat is able to take enough steel to load 200 freight cars. This plan, they declare, saves just that many cars for points which cannot be reached by water.

Shanghai Germans Raise Fund for Ruhr Sufferers

Shanghai—Dispatches received recently from Berlin conveyed heartfelt thanks to the small German community at Shanghai for a fund of five hundred million marks that had been forwarded from this port for Ruhr region sufferers. This was the first information to the general public here that such a fund had been collected in Shanghai.

The first remittance was approximately 70,000 gold marks, or roughly $17,000.

Duluth Oarsmen Training to Defend Their Titles

Duluth—Working with the knowledge that there will be no James A. (Dad) TenEyck, famous Syracuse University rowing mentor, to come west and add the finishing touches to the coaching just before the big races, the Duluth Boat Club oarsmen, nevertheless, are faithfully preparing to defend their national titles.

With the 1924 Olympics as their objective, the local oarsmen expect to make a stepping stone of the 1923 national races at Baltimore, and are winding up their land training preparatory to shoving off in the shells just as soon as the lake permits.

Attracted by the announcement that Walter Hoover, world's amateur singles sculling champion, would assist in the coaching, many former members of the local championship crews have joined the coaching squad and several of them are drilling daily in the hope of beating some of the younger blade wielders to regular positions in the eight and four oared crews.

Although Duluth will be without the services of Coach Ten Eyck who coached the local crews to a majority of their national and international honors, the rowing committee is confident that, through the present system of having veteran oarsmen alternate at drilling the squad, the club will be able to make a strong bid for the honor of representing the United States in the 1924 Olympics.

Eighteen of the squad of 75 oarsmen have had at least one year's experience in the shells. This is a record turnout of seasoned men, the rowing committee announces. Among these is Bribgman, who stroked the senior eight which won the 1921 national championship at Buffalo. Minus Bridgman and other stars on the 1921 crew, the Duluth Senior Eight stepped out last year and again won at Philadelphia.

Weird Dancing Precedes Indian Girl's Bethrothal

Washington—The modern "society" flapper, with her coming-out party has nothing on the American Indian maiden, whose marriage-announcement party has been among the tribal customs from time immemorial.

Among the Washoe Indians of Nevada there a is dance or ceremony known as "The girl's dance," in honor of the young girl who becomes eligible for marriage. Her white cousin, however, would hardly care to go the start of such a feast, for the guest of honor is allowed to eat nothing at all for four days previous.

On the fourth night the dance starts, at about eight o'clock and continues until sunrise the following morning. The Indians form a circle joining hands, and move by short sidesteps in a ring, humming a sort of chant without words or meaning. The girl, accompanied by an elderly woman as a sort of chaperone, and because of the weakness induced by her long fast, weaves in and out the dance, joining in the step.

As the dance proceeds late into the night the girl's family give money and other possessions to the dancers to keep them moving and to induce others to join in. The greater the number of dancers the greater the popularity of the family. Shortly after midnight a feast is given by the girl's relateves and all participate.

The ceremony closes at sunrise when the girl is taken to her tepee and attired in bunches of sagebrush in which money is concealed. She appears before the assembled dancers outside and throws the money to them, amid a wild scramble. A can of water is then dashed over her head as the concluding ceremony, after which she is realy to receive a proposal of marriage.

Siberian-Japanese Trade Injured by New Red Laws

Tokio—Trade between Japan and Siberia has come to a standstill owing to the heavy duties and other restrictions on imports imposed by the Vladivostok authorities. Passenger traffic also is at a low ebb owing to the Soviet authorities insisting that passports must be vised by Soviet representatives, of whom there are none so far in Japan, and both also because of a tax imposed on both incoming and out going passengers. Recently a Japanese liner was not allowed to dock, as none of her passengers had their passports vised.

One Japanese steamship company, however, is maintaining a service under a subsidy from the Japanese government in the hope that conditions will improve.

La Cross—National boys week will be celebrated here on Saturday with a parade under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, Rotary club and Y. M. C. A.

Festival of St. Eric, the patron saint of Sweden.

A TRIBUNE Want Ad will sell it.

Stevens Point Family May Share In Half-Billion Estate

FORTUNE AWAITS HEIRS IF CLAIMS TO EASTERN PROPERTY ARE SUSTAINED IN COURTS; MILLIONS AT STAKE

Stevens Point, Wis.—The G. C. Springer family of Stevens Point, F. R. Springer, who recently moved to Sheboygan from Almond, and relatives at Almond and elsewhere are heirs to a contested estate valued at $500,000,000 and attempts are being renewed at this time to win the fortune at stake. F. R. Springer is now in Chicago to meet with 39 other heirs in an effort to straighten out legal tangles which have long existed.

Dates Back to 1798

The Springer estate dates from 1798, when Charles Christopher Springer received from the United States government as a reward for distinguished military service a tract of land consisting of 2,651 acres near Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Springer later leased this land, which at that time was of little value, for a term of 99 years. In the meantime Wilmington grew and the land is now in the heart of that city. The lease recently expired and the heirs are now seeking to straighten out the title to the land and settle the estate.

Millions at Stake

G. C. and F. R. Springer are great great grandsons of the first owner of the land and the share of each may amount to about $13,000,000 if the heirs win in their fight, it is believed. A preparation of more than 10 years has been made in anticipation of the expiration of the lease, according to the Springers. Many of the original papers have been lost and it required much time to locate them. A book on the genealogy of the Springer family has been compiled during this time and includes hundreds of pages.

Many Local Heirs

John H. Springer, the oldest of three brothers, has been in the east for three years working with other heirs toward a settlement of the estate. Members of the G. C. Springer family here include a daughter, Miss Loretta, who is a rural supervising teacher in the Portage county schools. Other relatives, besides members of the local family are Mrs. M. Casey and Mrs. D. E. Trickey, both of Almond, and Miss Verna Sprinter a teacher at Fond du Lac, all three daughter of F. R. Springer. Miss Verna will not return to the Fond du Lac schools another year, having tendered her resignation to take effect at the close of the present term. At Fond du Lac, where she was interviewed by reporters, she laughingly denied that she was giving up teaching because of the probable shower of gold that awaits her. Her plans for next year do not include matrimony either, she asserted.

No Prediction

G. C. Springer, when interviewed today, told of the long efforts of members of the family to acquire the fortune which they believe is theirs but would make no predictions as to the possible success of the conference of heirs in their quest for the millions.

LOCAL WOMAN AN HEIR

Mrs. C. M. Renne of this city, whose home is on Eighth street south, is a direct descendant of Charles Christopher Springer, a division of whose estate, now valued at $500,000,000, is being sought by heirs at Stevens Point and other cities.

Mrs. Renne's great-grandmother was a daughter of the man to whom the United States government deeded the Delaware property as a reward for distinguished military service.

Although her claim to a share in the property is undoubtedly as good as any, Mrs. Renne does not expect to receive anything. Her branch of the family made an unsuccessful attempt to establish a claim to the property about thirty years ago, and is not participating in the present effort of heirs at Stevens Point to gain a division of the now immensely valuable estate.

Mabel E. Elliott Wins Praise of Greek People

Paris—Gratitude by the Greeks for the big, philanthropic things the American people are doing for that refugee-ridden country continues to find earnest expression. Every American who comes to Paris from Athens speaks of the modest devotion of the American relief workers there still engaged in grappling with the huge problem which resulted from the dumping on the Grecian shores of over a million moneyless, clotheless and homeless refuges from Turkey.

And especially do they dwell upon the extraordinary achievements of an American woman physician, Dr. Mabel E. Elliot of New York, who has, working quite alone, organized the housing and feeding of ten thousand Greek men, women and children on a small island on the Aegean Sea. They say that this demure, frail looking American crusader seems endowed with almost super-human powers of endurance. She toils from early morn until late at night, nourishing the hungry, administering to the sick, and organizing sanitary conditions. The Grecian people hold her in the highest esteem.

A recent number of the newspaper L'Echo d'Orient, published at Athens, contains a glowing tribute to the American people for what they have done for suffering Greece. "Obeying the economic law that liches should circulate the American people do not forget," says the article, "that to find happiness one must have as much heart as gold. Uncountable multitudes already owe Americans their lief, and across the centuries Christian history will record this fact in profound admiration."

Ziang Sun Wan, young Chinese student, convicted in 1920 of the murder of Hon Sen Wu, undersecretary at the Chinese Educational Mission in Washington, D. C., is under sentence to be executed today.

If Nicholas II., last of the Russian emperors, were alive today he would celebrate his 55th birthday.

Chinese Merchant Upholds National Repute for Honesty

Shanghai—Charges voiced in an address by John Johnstone, head of one of the oldest and what has been the largest foreign commercial house in China, Jardine, Matheson and Company, that Chinese business morality in the present age swiftly is growing decadent, and that the modern Chinese business man has fallen away from the old idea of Chinese honesty, has brought a reply from H. Y. Moh, who is perhaps the leader among the Chinese cotton magnates.

Mr. Moh declares that Chinese business morals have not deteriorated but, in all responsible quarters, have been kept to the high plane they always have enjoyed. The fault, he said, was with th foreign merchant in choosing more or less at random those with whom he dealt, and failing to investigate properly the characters of newcomers in the business world.

All Rail Supervisors Are Now in One Big Union

St. Louis—All railroad supervisors are now eligible to membership of the Railroad Supervisors, and by this action it is expected that the membership of the association will be increased immediately from 30,000 to 170,000, according to W. V. O'Neil, president of the organization.

The former name of the organization was the "International Association of Railroad Supervisors of Mechanics" and only supervisors of railroad mechanics were eligible to membership. Now, however, Mr. O'Neil pointed out, all railroad employees holding supervisory positions will be eligible as members. "The railroad executives have given enthusiastic approval to the new move," said Mr. O'Neil, as railroads will be guaranteed constant supervision.

"In the past a substantial number of supervisors were unorganized and others were affiliated with organizations of employees other than our boby, and under these circumstances it has not been possible to have any uniformity of action. Now, however, we are in a position to see tha all supervisory positions are filled with experienced men, and this will not only help the roads but will also guarantee a certain amount of safety to the general public that heretofore has not been possible, as the supervisors are not only responsible to the railroads but are also responsible to us."

Mr. O'Neil announced that the executive committee of his organization had authorized the establishment here of a national bank and the purchase of an office building for general headquarters of the association.

FIFTY YEARS AGO

A young man who practiced medicine in Pennsylvania became famous and was called in consultation in many towns and cities because of his success in the treatment of disease. This was Dr. Pierce, who finally made up his mind to place some of his medicines before the public and moving to Buffalo, N. Y., put up what he called his "Favorite Prescription," and placed it with the druggists in every state.

Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has long been recognized as a tonic for diseases peculiar to womanhood. After suffering pain feeling nervous dizzy, weak and dragged-down by weaknesses of her sex—a woman is quickly restored to health by its use. Thousands of women testify that Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription has ended ailments.

More recently that wonderful discovery of Dr. Pierce's called Anuric (for kidneys and backaches) has been successfully used by many thousands who write Dr. Pierce of the benefit received— that their backache, rheumatism, and other symptoms of uric acid deposits in joints or muscles have been completely conquered by its use.

Send 10c to Dr. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., for trial pkg. any of his remedies or write for free medical advice.

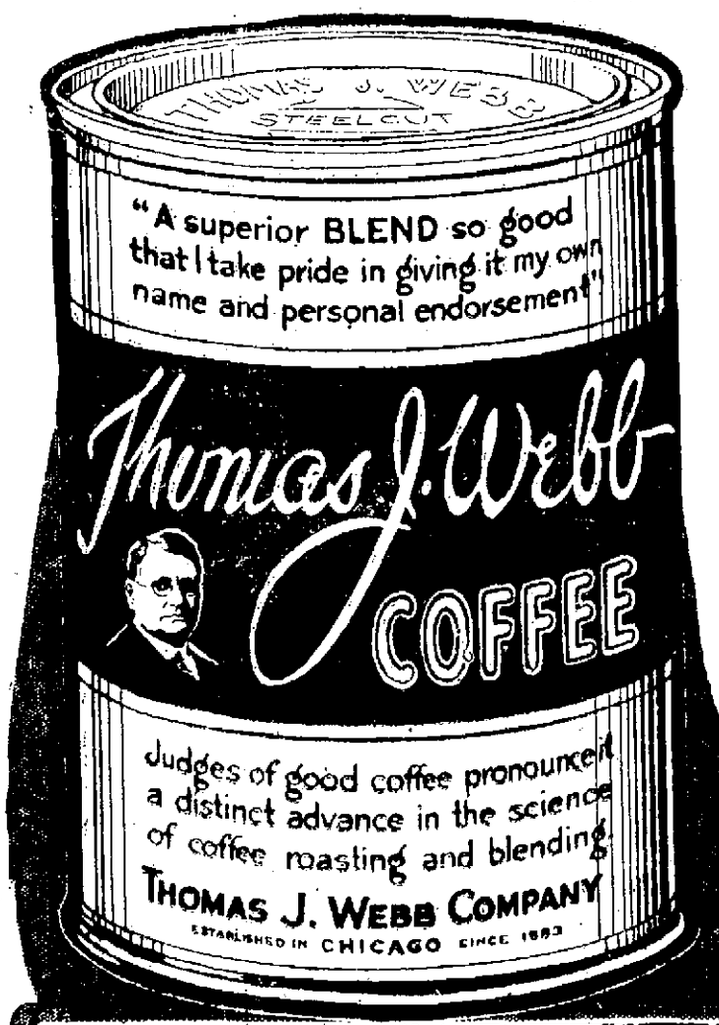
What do you ask of good Coffee?

What is it that prompts you to say "That's just right" when you taste an exceptional coffee?



Simmer it down to one word and you'll probably answer "Flavor." But did it ever occur to you that that thing called "flavor" in good coffee could never be produced by nature alone? Did you know that coffee beans taken from any one coffee plant could never produce a drinkable coffee?

Coffee flavor is a matter of blending—blending one coffee crop with another. And blending requires years and years of experience.

That's why the flavor of Thomas J. Webb Coffee is so far superior to that of ordinary coffees. The skill used in its blending is responsible for its unusual goodness.

And the fact that Thomas J. Webb Coffee is used by more people wherever it is sold than any other coffee is a popular recommendation that proves the blend must be right.

Be fair to yourself. Try Thomas J. Webb Coffee just once. Ask your grocer today.

THOMAS J. WEBB CO.
CHICAGO

The extreme care taken in producing a coffee blend so rare as Thomas J. Webb Coffee calls for unusual methods in its roasting and packing . . . lest any of its precious flavor be wasted before it reaches the user.

For that reason Thomas J. Webb Coffee is roasted in the "fire flame"—an exclusive roasting process that seals all the flavor in the coffee bean.

It is packed in an air-tight metal container which safeguards its freshness—insures its unwasted flavor.

Superior Blending makes it "The Coffee of Unusual Goodness"

JACK TO TRAIN IN OLD ROAD HOUSE

PLACE WAS ABANDONED BECAUSE OF SO MANY RAIDS BY DRY OFFICERS; CHAMP HAS TRAINING PARTNERS ENGAGED

Great Falls, Mont.,—An abondoned roadhouse located two miles from this city and known as Great Park, on Wednesday was seleced by Jack Dempsey for training quarters where he will prepare himself to defend the heavyweight boxing title against Tommy Gibbons at Shelby Mont., July 4. The roadhouse was raided by officers so many times in 1921 that it finally was closed.

On the property is a dance pavilion where a ring and spectators gallery will be bulit. Adjoining is a fifteen room residence, which the champion will use for living quarters.

Road Work First

A crew of men began work Wednesday morning getting the park in shape for the champion's activities, but Dempsey said he probably would not do much in the way of training other than road work. The titleholder said on Wednesday that Billy Meehan and Joe Benjamin of California George Godfrey, colored boxer and a Pittsburgh heavy, named Burke were on the way to join him as sparring partners.

Wednesday afternoon Dempsey visited Meadow Lark County club, where he was guest of Russell Strain, Montana millionaire. The champion contented himself with playing a few holes on the golf course with a big gallery following. Later Dempsey took a motor ride and visited the training camp to instruct the workmen who have begun to build the ring in which he will train.

Dempsey said he weighed 190 pounds, although he looked heavier.

"I will enter the ring on July 4 weighing between 180 and 185," he said. "That will be from five to ten pounds heavier than Gibbons, I imagine. I wish to correct any report that I am not going to train seriously for Gibbons. Just look over my sparring partners and training camp plans."

Promoters of the bout at Shelby claimed on Wednesday advance ticket sales had reached close to 500,000. A group of Argentine fans has ordered ringside seats.

Walker and Tunney Win Bouts; Tunney Injured

Chicago—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., the world's welterweight champion, won off by himself in a 10-round bout here Wednesday night, but in Cowboy Padgett of Dolores, Col., encountered a ring veteran who was able to assimilate all the punishment dealt out and bore in for more.

Walker knocked Padgett off his feet in the the first and fourth rounds, the first upsets for the westerner in nearly 150 ring battles, but the cowboy refused to take a count and it still is his boast that a referee's arm never has waved over him. He fought as if infuriated after the knockdowns and rushing the champion to the ropes, bloodied his nose, but was unable to get home a telling blow. At the end, Padgett was trying hard to fight back, but Walker easily was his master.

Nekoosa Has Model Camp Site For Visiting Tourists

KITCHEN, TWO MESS SHEDS, SWIMMING POOL AND PLEASANT SURROUNDINGS FAVOR SITE

Now that the time of tourist parties is at hand the attention of many small cities and villages is turned to the tourist's parks or free camping grounds where the tourists are provided with many conveniences through the thoughtfulness of leading citizens in the various communities.

Nekoosa Takes Lead

Nekoosa, our small but progressive neighbor to the south of us, is one of the most forward in the matter of provding the tourist with many of the comforts that he would enjoy at home. Their camp site is one that could be used as a model by many of the cities of the state, which are favored with much greater wealth and population, but not with any greater amount of enterprise and zeal than that exhibited by leading citizens of Nekoosa who are determined to push Nekoosa to the front of the hospitality list.

During the summer of 1921, when Brownie and the Poor Cuss, Milwaukee Journal mud-hounds, were casting about the state in one of their annual road finding and ditch digging enterprizes they came to this section of the state and were entertained by Nekoosa citizens. Brownie spoke of the advantage of the tourist camp sites and the good it would bring the city. Shortly after leading citizens of the community, members of the Chamber of Commerce and the city officials got together and decided to install a free camping ground for tourists.

With this in view a committee was appointed to go into details with the result that the site was picked on the west side of the river adjoining state road 13. Here a kitchen was erected, a cook stove was installed, and two mess sheds were erected, their beauty comforming with the natural scenic beauty of the location.

Build Swimming Pool

Not be outdone by any other community the enterprizing citizens decided to build a municipal swimming pool just across the road from the tourist camp site and include it as part of the camping ground equipment. Work was started immediately upon the project and it was shortly completed, affording Nekoosa and her tourist visitors an excellant and safe place to take their daily plunge. That this move was greatly appreciated by the tourists is evidenced by the large number of tourists who stop there daily to accept the hospitality of Nekoosa and the advantages of her swimming pool.

The ease with which the tourist camp grounds may be reached shows the unselfish attitude of Nekoosa. Located in the heart of the city, on state road 13, the direct route from the Dells to the northern lakes, the park is within the reach of all tourists and it shows that Nekoosa is willing to share her advantages with the tourist.

Improvements on Ohio Begin to Show Results

Pittsburgh—First results of the federal government's intention to continue improvements on the Ohio River are seen here in the announcement of the Jones & Laughlin Steel company that it had awarded contracts for steamboats, barges and landings to the extent of about $1,000,000, the money to be available for immediate expenditure.

Plans of Pittsburgh district steel companies for use of the Ohio river to take their products to market include a water route to points on the lower Ohio and on the Mississippi. At these points the shipments are transferred to railroads, and then moved forward to their destinations. Mill traffic managers hold that this system enables them to get shipments out of the congested Pittsburgh district in short order and deliver them to southern railroads which, being much less congested, are able to haul them over to the consumer at a considerable saving of time. In some instances the water route from Pittsburgh to the southern port about equals the haul after delivery to the railroad, but in many cases such as the shipment of oil well material to the Arkansas, Louisiana and Oklahoma fields, the rail haul is considerably shorter.

Another element which encourages steel manufacturers to use the Ohio is the amount of material which a towboat can handle. Sometimes one boat is able to take enough steel to load 200 freight cars. This plan, they declare, saves just that many cars for points which cannot be reached by water.

Shanghai Germans Raise Fund for Ruhr Sufferers

Shanghai—Dispatches received recently from Berlin conveyed heartfelt thanks to the small German community at Shanghai for a fund of five hundred million marks that had been forwarded from this port for Ruhr region sufferers. This was the first information to the general public here that such a fund had been collected in Shanghai.

The first remittance was approximately 70,000 gold marks, or roughly $17,000.

Duluth Oarsmen Training to Defend Their Titles

Duluth—Working with the knowledge that there will be no James A. (Dad) TenEyck, famous Syracuse University rowing mentor, to come west and add the finishing touches to the coaching just before the big races, the Duluth Boat Club oarsmen, nevertheless, are faithfully preparing to defend their national titles.

With the 1924 Olympics as their objective, the local oarsmen expect to make a stepping stone of the 1923 national races at Baltimore, and are winding up their land training preparatory to shoving off in the shells just as soon as the lake permits.

Attracted by the announcement that Walter Hoover, world's amateur singles sculling champion, would assist in the coaching, many former members of the local championship crews have joined the coaching squad and several of them are drilling daily in the hope of beating some of the younger blade wielders to regular positions in the eight and four oared crews.

Although Duluth will be without the services of Coach Ten Eyck who coached the local crews to a majority of their national and international honors, the rowing committee is confident that, through the present system of having veteran oarsmen alternate at drilling the squad, the club will be able to make a strong bid for the honor of representing the United States in the 1924 Olympics.

Eighteen of the squad of 75 oarsmen have had at least one year's experience in the shells. This is a record turnout of seasoned men, the rowing committee announces. Among these is Bribgman, who stroked the senior eight which won the 1921 national championship at Buffalo. Minus Bridgman and other stars on the 1921 crew, the Duluth Senior Eight stepped out last year and again won at Philadelphia.

Weird Dancing Precedes Indian Girl's Bethrothal

Washington—The modern "society" flapper, with her coming-out party has nothing on the American Indian maiden, whose marriage-announcement party has been among the tribal customs from time immemorial.

Among the Washoe Indians of Nevada there a is dance or ceremony known as "The girl's dance," in honor of the young girl who becomes eligible for marriage. Her white cousin, however, would hardly care to be the star of such a feast, for the guest of honor is allowed to eat nothing at all for four days previous.

On the fourth night the dance starts, at about eight o'clock and continues until sunrise the following morning. The Indians form a circle joining hands, and move by short sidesteps in a ring, humming a sort of chant without words or meaning. The girl, accompanied by an elderly woman as a sort of chaperone, and because of the weakness induced by her long fast, weaves in and out the dance, joining in the step.

As the dance proceeds late into the night the girl's family give money and other possessions to the dancers to keep them moving and to induce others to join in. The greater the number of dancers the greater the popularity of the family. Shortly after midnight a feast is given by the girl's relatives and all participate.

The ceremony closes at sunrise when the girl is taken to her tepee and attired in bunches of sagebrush in which money is concealed. She appears before the assembled dancers outside and throws the money to them, amid a wild scramble. A can of water is then dashed over her head as the concluding ceremony, after which she is realy to receive a proposal of marriage.

Siberian-Japanese Trade Injured by New Red Laws

Tokio—Trade between Japan and Siberia has come to a standstill owing to the heavy duties and other restrictions on imports imposed by the Vladivostok authorities. Passenger traffic also is at a low ebb owing to the Soviet authorities insisting that passports must be vised by Soviet representatives, of whom there are none so far in Japan, and both also because of a tax imposed on both incoming and out going passengers. Recently a Japanese liner was not allowed to dock, as none of her passengers had their passports vised.

One Japanese steamship company, however, is maintaining a service under a subsidy from the Japanese government in the hope that conditions will improve.

La Cross—National boys week will be celebrated here on Saturday with a parade under the auspices of the Boy Scouts, Rotary club and Y. M. C. A.

Festival of St. Eric, the patron saint of Sweden.

A TRIBUNE Want Ad will sell it.

JACK TO TRAIN IN OLD ROAD HOUSE

PLACE WAS ABANDONED BECAUSE OF SO MANY RAIDS BY DRY OFFICERS; CHAMP HAS TRAINING PARTNERS ENGAGED

Great Falls, Mont.,—An abondoned roadhouse located two miles from this city and known as Great Park, on Wednesday was seleced by Jack Dempsey for training quarters where he will prepare himself to defend the heavyweight boxing title against Tommy Gibbons at Shelby Mont., July 4. The roadhouse was raided by officers so many times in 1921 that it finally was closed.

On the property is a dance pavilion where a ring and spectators gallery will be bulit. Adjoining is a fifteen room residence, which the champion will use for living quarters.

Road Work First

A crew of men began work Wednesday morning getting the park in shape for the champion's activities, but Dempsey said he probably would not do much in the way of training other than road work. The titleholder said on Wednesday that Billy Meehan and Joe Benjamin of California George Godfrey, colored boxer and a Pittsburgh heavy, named Burke were on the way to join him as sparring partners.

Wednesday afternoon Dempsey visited Meadow Lark County club, where he was guest of Russell Strain, Montana millionaire. The champion contented himself with playing a few holes on the golf course with a big gallery following. Later Dempsey took a motor ride and visited the training camp to instruct the workmen who have begun to build the ring in which he will train.

Dempsey said he weighed 190 pounds, although he looked heavier.

"I will enter the ring on July 4 weighing between 180 and 185," he said. "That will be from five to ten pounds heavier than Gibbons, I imagine. I wish to correct any report that I am not going to train seriously for Gibbons. Just look over my sparring partners and training camp plans."

Promoters of the bout at Shelby claimed on Wednesday advance ticket sales had reached close to 500,000. A group of Argentine fans has ordered ringside seats.

Walker and Tunney Win Bouts; Tunney Injured

Chicago—Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., the world's welterweight champion, won off by himself in a 10-round bout here Wednesday night, but in Cowboy Padgett of Dolores, Col., encountered a ring veteran who was able to assimilate all the punishment dealt out and bore in for more.

Walker knocked Padgett off his feet in the the first and fourth rounds, the first upsets for the westerner in nearly 150 ring battles, but the cowboy refused to take a count and it still is his boast that a referee's arm never has waved over him. He fought as if infuriated after the knockdowns and rushing the champion to the ropes, bloodied his nose, but was unable to get home a telling blow. At the end, Padgett was trying hard to fight back, but Walker easily was his master.
